PREFATORY NOTES

In attempting to add some prefatory notes to the present volume the picture in Punch recurs to me of the costermonger who was urged by a 'pal' of his to reply to the minatory threats of a by-standing foe. "Give it 'im, Bill!" said the friend. "How can I?" replied Bill; "e's used up all the best words!" Similarly, in the Prefatory Notes to Volume 2, all my best words appear to have been used up, and there seems to be nothing left to say. The present volume has been arranged upon precisely the same plan as the former, and what was said in elucidation of the system of its production applies equally to this one. There is therefore really nothing to do in that connexion but to refer subscribers to the previous volume.

There is however one matter to which attention may be fittingly given during the interval between the close of one auction-season and the commencement of another, viz., the compilation of sale-catalogues; and if my strictures upon various forms of apparent carelessness: innumerable inaccuracies of expression: sins, both of omission and commission: should seem severe, the criticised are asked to believe that the animadversions are not unfriendly ones, and should endeavour to realise—as, doubtless, they did in boyhood when their fathers "larruped" them—that it is all for their own good. They may even, if they digest any suggestions which an experience of cataloguing of forty years' duration enables me to make—they may, I repeat, hope to look forward to that increase of remuneration which more valuable services should entitle them to at the hands of those to whose interests they are devoted. With which stimulating observation let us pass on to the matter in hand.

One who cares for his occupation at least as much for its own sake as because it is a means of income-earning may be excused regret at being forced daily to notice absurdities at which bibliography-loving angels might weep. Cataloguers of books are presumably—at least, they should be—men of education, but when they dignify adverbs, common-nouns, and other minor parts of speech with capital letters, and when punctuation is evidently to them an unknown art, they refute the assumption. A cataloguer who ascribes the works of Benjamin Disraeli to "Lord Disraeli" instead of to the Earl of Beaconsfield simply does not know his business, nor does the other who catalogues the works of Lord Herbert of Cherbury as being by Lord Herbert Cherbury, and and places the entry under "Cherbury" instead of "Herbert." Similarly, Sir Francis Bacon was constantly dubbed "Lord Bacon" until I called attention to the fact that Bacon was only his name, and Verulam his barony, and while most cataloguers have now purged themselves of this heresy there are still one or two who cling to it. A brief course of training at the College of Arms would really seem to be part of the necessary equipment of a book cataloguer. When a binding is described as being "covered in rich gilt floreate ornaments" you know that the meaning of words is being disregarded, and that the preposition "with" is intended. What are stated to be "gilt leaves" are not gilt leaves at all: it is merely that the edges are gilt. We are told that a previous copy of some book or other has "fetched" such and such a sum in the past, and although it is true that as a dictionary definition the term is correct it has a commonplace association with the idea of fetching and carrying which the equally good but infinitely better-sounding term realised does not possess. Some volumes are said to have gauffré edges, not gauffred edges, or, better still, the correct spelling of the Anglicised form of the word—gauffered. Even the orthography of the French word is incorrect, with its superfluous f. There is apparently a fine confusion in the minds of cataloguers with regard to so elementary a matter—regulated by absolute authority—as the sizes of books. One example, from many, is the Edition de luxe of Shakespeare's Works, edited by Howard Staunton, 15 volumes, 1881, described in one sale-room this year as being "imperial 8vo" and placed among the octavos, and in another room stated to be "4to" and placed among the quartos, while in some catalogues quartos and folios are all lumped together under the head of Folio, to the utter mystification of all but experts. In one instance a whole page of octavos were headed 'QUARTO.' The attribution of works to imaginary authors is no uncommon occurrence. Thus the name of Pierce Egan is constantly being given as that of the unknown author of Real Life in London, although attention was drawn to the error in B.A.R. in July, 1905. The work that Egan wrote was the Life in London, and its success caused an anonymous imitation to be published in the following year. A glaring instance of such faulty cataloguing occurred in a sale this season, as follows:—

Now, Massinger was the principal author of this play, and, according to the Biographia Dramatica, he was "assisted" by Field. The volume should therefore have been entered under Massinger. It is true that a note states that Field was "part author," but the unfortunate principal is altogether ignored. The key to the error is that Field was a Shakespearian actor, and nowadays it is the fashion to lug-in Shakespeare, head and shoulders, wherever possible, irrespective of the niceties of cataloguing. Lowndes properly places The Fatal Dowry among Massinger's Works, with merely a cross-reference under Field referring to Massinger. Again, anything in the shape of system is utterly lacking in the selection of heads under which entries are made, as the following examples show. The Cabinet of Genius appears variously under Cabinet, Taylor, and Shelley, the latter being the name of the illustrator. The Book of Common Prayer printed by the Essex House Press will appear at one time under Essex and at another time under Book. The Nuremberg Chronicle is catalogued under Chronicon, Chronicle, Nuremberg, and Schedel (the author). In one catalogue we get the following :—

while in another section of the same catalogue perhaps, another copy, described by a different cataloguer, appears as

Johnson (Dr. S.) Life by James Boswell, 1791.

Either method has its merits, but at least there should be uniformity, based upon the balance of advantages. Five more 'awful examples' must suffice. The following are from recent catalogues :—

Chapman (George) Whole Works of Homer, 1616
Ward (W.) Secretes of Alexis of Piedmont, 1568
Dyce (Alexander) Works of George Peele, 3 vols., 1828
Higins (J.) Mirour for Magistrates, 1587
Cruikshank (G.) Poems by the Knight of Morar.

The two translators (Chapman and Ward), the editor (Dyce), the publisher (Higins), and the illustrator (Cruikshank) are deliberately entered as being the authors of the respective works, while in the last case the very name of the author—Sir William Fraser—is omitted. It is futile to reply that the names are headings. If they were headings the surnames only would be given, followed by a period. Further, Higins should not have been Higins at all, but Higgins. Such uncalled for inexactness is, in short, an unmitigated nuisance to the searcher. He never knows under what heading to look. It is quite easy to understand a book being placed under the most attractive heading, but let it be a heading, and not a construction of a sentence which, if correct in grammar, means nothing but an untruth. The avoidance of such pitfalls is easy because it merely requires that capacity for taking pains which is said to be the essence of genius.

Another needed reform is a recurrence to the use of plain English in all descriptive matter, for our catalogues are catalogues of English sales, and only our own language should be used when once the title has been transcribed. At present the first edition of a Latin work becomes an Editio Princeps ; of a French work, the Première Edition ; of an Italian work, the Prima Edizione or Edizione Originale ; and so on ; much, probably, to the bewilderment of book sellers who do not happen to be linguists. In one case an English book is described as being an Editione Royale, whatever that may mean. Editione is not a French word, nor yet to be found in any other language, while royale means a tuft of beard under the lower lip! It is true the term has a pretty, sonorous sound, but—like the heading which a bookseller once attached to a copy of the 'Gesta Romanorum,' viz., 'Roman Jests'—it appears to be merely the offspring of an inventive mind. One cataloguer went out of his way to state that a book is "première edition Elzevirienne sous cette date." What he meant to say was that it was "the first Elzevir edition of that date," but probably his French was ailing and he decided to give it an airing.

Instances are frequent of worthless autographs and ex libris being stated to be on the fly-leaves or in other parts of old books—Mary Jones, June 10, 1661 : or Thomas Smith, 1590, &c., as the case may be—as if the importance of the copy might thereby be enhanced. Space is not wasted in B.A.R. by the repetition of such statements, but when an autograph or an ex libris exists which represents commercial value it is carefully recorded.

Over-cataloguing is a constant sin of commission : the elaboration of unimportant minutiæ : a taking of one's subject too seriously, and only of good for the printers, if not positively misleading to the purchasers. In this way we find the old stamped vellum covers described as being stamped with portraits of reformers, etc., as if they had been specially designed for the particular copy in question, whereas, as we all know, such stamps were used for books of all classes of subjects. Whether it is worth while stating that a volume which sells for £1 8s. has "bronze ornamental end papers," and that in a book of but moderate value there is "a small worm-hole in one blank margin" ; or to devote three whole lines to trifling defects in another that realizes £1 16s., is a matter of opinion. Finally, cataloguers should remember Disraeli's dictum as to being intoxicated with the exuberance of one's own verbosity. Some among them surely spread themselves out to achieve a fine flow of language, whether it mean anything or nothing. Why not learn, once for all, that in the written word conciseness spells strength, and elongation weakness. Their methods are those of the fish-fag, who, to strengthen her vituperations, uses two negatives and so makes an affirmative. Apart from their methods, however, I am bound, in justice, in concluding this section of the Prefatory Notes, to say that in some respects the work of the compilers of auction catalogues is admirable. I mean in the matter of notes, the patience, industry, and research in the compilation of which are often beyond all praise, are of invaluable service to the bibliographer, the bibliophile, and the bookseller : and entirely count for righteousness.

A few personal matters remain to be dealt with. As a thorough system of abbreviation is adopted in B.A.R. the publication might be thought liable to suffer in essential points. This is not so. Every essential is included, and only the superfluous discarded. The following instance of useless bulk is reproduced from a defunct annual record of book prices:

> Dekker (Thomas) The Belman of London: bringing to light the most notorious Villanies that are now practised in the Kingdome, profitable for Gentlemen, Lawyers, Merchants, Citizens, Farmers, Masters of Householdes, and all sorts of Servantes to marke, and delightfull for all men to reade. Black Letter, calf extra, g.e., Small 4to, 1616.

If twenty copies of this work had happened to occur for sale in one year this title would have been repeated twenty times in a single volume. In B.A.R. the book would have been recorded as follows:—

> Dekker (Thos.) Belman of London, b. l., cf. ex., g. e., sm. 4to, 1616.

If, for any particular purpose, the title were required in full, every bookman in the world has Lowndes at his elbow, while in the case of editions not known to that authority the titles are reprinted in B.A.R. verbatim from the auction catalogues.

A particularly flagrant example of waste of space occurs in yet another publication, in which the sale of no fewer than thirteen copies of Lowndes' Bibliographer's Manual are solemnly recorded in one year. Now every bibliophile and every bookseller in the world knows that 'Lowndes' is one of the commonest of books, and that its average value is £1: slight variations in price being accounted for by the binding; and that it is still in print and can be obtained from the publishers. Yet, upon thirteen separate pages the title of this work is set forth, and thirteen times its price is recorded. That is no book of reference for a serious bookman to possess.

It is upon this very point that Mr. W. C. Hazlitt says, in his History of Book-Collecting (p. 277), 'a great deal of repetition and redundancy and useless expense are incurred by the literal transcript of the titles of books more or less familiar to all who are interested in them,' and (pp. 262-263) writing with reference to such publications he says, 'Unfortunately the two latter undertakings are little better than mechanical transcripts from the auctioneers' catalogues by outsiders. This is a species of employment for which there must be either a long training or a unique instinct. "Book Prices Current" and "Book Sales" cannot be trusted as an authority or a guide by any person who does not approach them with a certain measure of experience. Where an editor cites a common and comparatively worthless volume as selling for a high sum, and omits to mention that on the title there is a valuable autograph, the mischief is obvious ; and this and allied forms of error are habitual. Such empirical attempts do more harm than good.'

The searcher after rarities alone will perhaps question the policy of inserting some books which, to him, seem to be of but slight importance. If so, he will be regarding the matter only from his own point of view. just as also will the man who is interested only in works of lesser value, and who does not care for records of editions in which he never deals. The reply in each case is that B.A.R. is not meant for one class of bookman only, but for all classes, and that to some it is as important to know that a volume is only worth one shilling which they thought might be worth a hundred pounds as it is for others to learn that it is worth a hundred pounds when they did not know it to be worth more than a shilling. In this connexion the following extract from a letter of a correspondent points a moral :—

"*I consider B.A.R. in every way superior. Its great advantage lies in its putting in the separate lots which only realize a few shillings. Any one relying on the high prices that are alone chronicled * * * would be utterly misled in buying. With your publication one can strike the necessary average.*"

Headings are avoided in B.A.R. wherever possible, as they lead to mere guessing and confusion. A typical case of avoidable doubt is the following :—

The Return from Parnassus, or the Scourge of Simony. Publiquely Acted by the Students of Saint John's College in Cambridge, 1606.

Lowndes places this under Parnassus. Parnassus is however, in this case, merely symbolical, and if a heading of any kind is to be selected from the title St. Johns College, or Cambridge, or even Simony would be more pertinent than Parnassus. It is just as easy to look for it under Return as under anything else, and so it appeared in Vol. 2 of B.A.R. under Return.

In those cases in which imperfect copies are recorded it is because they are editions which have possibly not occurred for many years, and may not recur for many more. It is better, therefore, to record some criterion of value than none at all.

The articles A and The are always omitted in B.A.R. excepting in cases in which their absence would spoil the sense of the title.

Some criticism has been directed to the 'get-up' of B.A.R. The paper has been declared to be thin and poor and the margins inadequate. These defects—if they be defects—can be easily remedied if subscribers are prepared to pay the extra cost. but, so long as a minimum of 15,000 records—plus 4 plates and some extra printed matter and free delivery throughout the world—are required for the present terms of subscription, improvement is impossible. More than one subscriber indeed has admitted the price of B.A.R. to be ridiculously inadequate for such a mass of detail. A still further answer is supplied by the fact that many subscribers expressly desire the volumes to be printed on thin paper, in order not to add to bulk and weight, and one subscriber wished that it might be printed on India paper, for, said he, "I have carted vol. I all over the country to different sales."

The remarkable library of Mr. R. C. Fisher, of Hill Top, Midhurst, which was to have been sold at Sotheby's on May 21-23 requires mention. Reference to it would have been made in Part 3 but for pressure on space. The Collection consisted chiefly of early and extremely rare Italian, German, and French woodcut books, including a fine series of books of "Hours," and a few fine bindings, and I am permitted to say that it was the opinion of the auctioneers that, of its kind, it was probably the most important that has been in the market for half a century. Before the day of sale the Collection was sold en bloc, by Messrs. Sotheby, to an English bibliophile, and buyers were deprived of the bonne bouche of the season. Messrs. Sotheby very kindly gave permission for the catalogue to be reprinted in B.A.R., as a permanent record of such books, but considerations of space and cost prevented the idea taking practical shape. If, however, subscribers will support a plan which is formulating in my mind for the production of a volume of notes on rare books, the catalogue in question may yet be resurrected, in part at least if not entirely.

Last, but not least, bibliographers will, I am sure, be grateful to authors who cease to choose inexplicit titles. Thus, it is not quite easy to record such a title as "J. M. W. Turner, by Sir Walter Armstrong", it being a mere collocation of names, and not indicative, as a title should be, of the character of the book.

ADVERTISEMENTS

NOTHING appeals to the imagination so much as a picture. It attracts notice and dwells in the memory as no printed matter will. Hence we intend to introduce illustrated advertisements in Book Auction Records, and we commence with one of our own, on page 3 of the cover of this part. These advertisements will be inserted at the minimum possible cost, and we invite correspondence from subscribers who are enterprising enough to advertise their establishments in this manner.

MESSRS. HODGSON'S AUCTION ROOM.

MESSRS. HODGSON'S AUCTION-ROOM

The following brief record of the history of Messrs Hodgson's firm is p[illegible] accompaniment to the frontispiece to this part. This well-known firm [illegible] Auctioneers was founded by Mr. Robert Saunders, and the earliest Catalogue extant dated Sept. 9th, 1807, the sale taking place at Reading. After this date the sales were usually held at the offices of Mr. Saunders, 14 Old Compton Street, London, and occasionally, at "Tom's Coffee House," Cornhill. In May, 1808, the firm moved to 39 Fleet Street, formerly occupied by Macklin, who published the great Bible of [illegible]. In 1829, in consequence of expiration of lease, the firm migrated to 192 Fleet Street, the corner of Chancery Lane, which had formerly been a stationer's shop, kept, it is said, by the father of Abraham Cowley, the poet. A few months before moving, the business had passed into the hands of Mr. Edmund Hodgson, who for some years previously had been associated with Mr. Saunders. In Dec. 1854 the firm moved, for the fourth time, to No. 2 Chancery Lane, and again in June 1863 to the premises they now occupy at 115 Chancery Lane, which were specially built for their business as Book-Auctioneers. In 1867 Mr. Edmund Hodgson retired, and the business was continued by his son, Mr. H. H. Hodgson, in partnership with his brother, Mr. B. B. Hodgson. The latter retired after a few years, the sole direction of the business passing to Mr. H. H. Hodgson, who in turn retired in 1900. The firm is at present represented by his two sons, Mr. J. E. and Mr. S. Hodgson.

The foregoing details have been gathered from one of a series of articles inserted by Messrs. Hodgson in The Times in November, 1905.

The following article appeared in Chambers's Journal, Jan. 24, 1891, and permission has been kindly given to reprint it. The article applies just as much to bookselling to-day as it did fifteen years ago, and it cannot fail to be of interest to subscribers. Ours should be a high, an ennobling, and a dignified calling, and its younger members should do all in their power, by educating themselves, and by their conduct in it, to make it so. In Germany no assistant, I am told, is taken into a bookseller's unless he has had a university education, while such men as bankers for instance—thought highly of here for their mere opulence—are there held in far lower esteem than booksellers. This is as it should be. Man has raised himself to the command of the lower animals by brain-power alone, and the cultivation of the brain by means of its hand-maiden, Literature, is the highest career a man can pursue, if only that it induces a contempt for the vicissitudes of life to which the loftiest-placed are subject, and a disregard for erroneous opinions of conduct and character that are based on them. Material 'success' is not everything, by a very long way.

'Second-Hand Bookselling.—By the majority of the general public the calling of a dealer in old and rare books is looked upon as a curious kind of pursuit, somewhat on a par with other 'second-hand' businesses—old clothes, for example, or broken-down furniture. Even among men of culture, there lurks a leaven of disdain for a trade which in reality more nearly approaches to a profession than almost any other—that is, of course, when properly carried out. Many people fancy that the sole requirements are a shop, a few bundles of books picked up at a sale, a bench outside and a box or two. Some, indeed, start with no more, and scrape along in a fashion; but they are far removed from what is properly understood by 'second-hand bookselling.'

Few beyond the ranks of the craft rightly appreciate the many qualities needed in this interesting and intellectual calling, but, like most that are interesting, inadequately remunerative. Why is it that the lucrativeness of an occupation is, as a rule, in inverse ratio to the mental qualifications it demands? It is the butcher, the publican, the liner-draper, who grow rich and leave colossal fortunes. How many booksellers do more than make a decent living? Of course, food, drink, and clothing are necessities; literature, a luxury; yet it seems a trifle unjust that a man should make thousands cutting up sheep, when one engaged in work which demands high and varied attainments wearies brain and body for ridiculously small recompense.

Let us consider for a moment what these necessary qualifications are. Retentive and accurate memory; a more than superficial knowledge of history, and of course, literature; acquaintance with modern languages, and certainly with Latin; finally, a certain appreciation of books, hard to define, in reality intuitive, and perhaps but rarely found—a gift which seems to enable the possessor to distinguish in some mysterious manner between an unfamiliar book of value and one that is worthless. To some extent it may therefore be said that the second-hand bookseller is born and not made. There are members of the trade who owe their success chiefly to the possession of this faculty others who add thereto the acquired merits enumerated above, and these are the model representatives of a worthy and under-valued body. Perhaps an equable temper should have been included in the list, as surely few people have to submit to more irritating ignorance and presumption in the course of their business. The bores who worry them take several shapes. Most persistent and wearisome is the ubiquitous collector 'in search of information.' Perhaps it is hardly fair to class him with the collectors, as he hardly ever buys anything He will enter the shop with an inquiry as to the price of a book in the window, merely as an excuse to pave the way to a deluge of questions. 'What is the value of so-and-so?' 'How much ought I to give for such and such a book?' 'Is the first edition of ——'s poems worth anything?' and so on 'ad infinitum,' unless stopped, though that is no easy matter, and can frequently be effected only by downright rudeness. What often makes his conduct worse is, that after eliciting a quotation as to the value of a certain work, he will produce the very volume from his pocket and almost insist on its being purchased at the price named. Sometimes he will proceed to a neighbour, armed with the insidiously-acquired information, and drive a capital bargain for some chance-bought rarity.

It must be admitted that such persons constitute an injustice to a tradesman. What enables the latter to carry on his business but the knowledge of his books and their value, and should he be expected to give away that knowledge any more than the goods themselves? In the case of a dealer in rare books this argument has peculiar force With him it is so essentially a question of superior knowledge, gained by years of patient attention, that marks the difference between the man who sells and the public who buy. It is as reasonable to ask for a volume off his shelves as for the painfully-acquired information as to their value or dates. At least the questioner might offer to make a purchase; but this proceeding is, as a rule the furthest from his thoughts. He generally wants to know something 'for a friend' in the country, which hypothetical acquaintance is held up as a bait to the bookseller as a 'possible' future customer. There are no more persistent and provoking people than the members of that wearisome fraternity. 'Age does not stale, nor custom change their infinite'—impudence; neglect, coldness, nay, even often insult, scarcely serve to deter them from their malicious sport. If, perchance, one should scan these lines, let him remember that what may be amusement to him is something far different to the harassed dealer, who has quite enough to occupy his attention without fulfilling the onerous duties of a literary Inquiry Office.

Bores of another class are those sanguine individuals who have imaginary rarities to dispose of. From town and from country they wait upon the bookseller with volumes, generally bulky, respecting whose value they have formed the most exaggerated notions. They are particularly fertile in old Bibles, especially after some great book-sale of sufficient importance to be recorded by the press, and in which has occurred, say, a 'Mazarin' or 'Cranmer,' realising some enormous sum. The countryman, radiant in his Sunday best, makes his appearance weighted with a huge parcel.

'I've got a very ancient Bible to sell. It's more than two hundred years old. I see as how an old Bible sold for a thousand pounds t'other day; don't suppose this is worth so much as that quite; but I thought I'd like to turn it into money. 'Tain't no good to me, bein' so very old. Over two hundred years.' And so on.

'Yes; very well; let me see it.'

The parcel being opened, one discovers a very dilapidated copy of a very worthless edition, minus, probably, such trifles as the title-page and sundry leaves at the end—honest value when perfect, twelve shillings; as presented, nothing at all. It is an almost pitiful task to break this to the eagerly expectant possessor, already revelling in the anticipated benefit of the many sovereigns he deemed his prize to represent. Yet it has to be done; and he goes his way, probably to another shop with a poor opinion of his first adviser's sanity, and only giving up hope when a succession of such experiences has taught him the bitter truth. These are but two specimens of the nuisances booksellers have to put up with, and that almost daily. Is it surprising that an even temper should have been cited as one of their necessary gifts?

Booksellers' catalogues have frequently been the object of somewhat contemptuous jocularity on the part of gentlemen whose time seems to be chiefly occupied in writing to Notes and Queries and other literary papers. Perhaps some day one will be found with the grace to say a good word for these publications, and to acknowledge the indebtedness readers and collectors are frequently under to the varied information about books contained in many of the periodical lists issued by painstaking firms. We have heard a good deal about the stupid mistakes which crop up now and then, without regard being had to the many advantages which the general accuracy of catalogues affords to readers.

Let justice be done to the carefully-prepared notes and descriptions to be found plentifully scattered through many catalogues which could be named, the outcome of considerable work and laborious research, far in excess of what the uninitiated would consider necessary to be bestowed on ephemeral publications of this kind. Dates have to be verified, facts referred to, perhaps a precedent found for price, and in many cases a condensed account of the volume and its contents given. All this requires more than mere labour—tact, education, literary skill, and immense perseverance.

The profits made by second-hand booksellers are popularly supposed to be abnormally great. In many cases, no doubt, a good 'haul' is made, entirely due, by-the-by, to the knowledge possessed by the dealer, which enables him to make the most of a bargain; but it is only just that these large profits should occur now and then, first, to repay him for the valuable time he has been forced to expend in gaining the necessary experience; and secondly, to provide to some extent a reserve fund against one of the most curious features in this business, the extraordinary fluctuations in the value of stock. Old books may be said to be worth just what they will fetch, and that is best represented by x, an unknown quantity. There are so many contingencies. Fashion, which decrees that certain works shall go up in price this year, to drop as rapidly the next. The conditions of sale are a most important part, for, as is well known, books from a good library will often realise twice or three times as much at auction as the identical volumes if offered under ordinary circumstances. Consequently, no dealer is absolutely certain of his assets. He cannot truthfully say, 'My stock is worth so much,' because he gave the sum named for it. Let him try to realise by the usual channel, the auction-room, and the books may perhaps fetch half their cost. Of course, on the other hand they might bring a profit. This is an experience, however, which very few of the craft have ever been subjected to. In proof of these assertions, take, for instance, a recent craze, that for first editions of Charles Dickens's Works. A year or two back, anything and everything, good, bad, or indifferent, shabby copies and the choicest 'uncut' examples were eagerly sought for and bought up. Now, although fine copies of this author's works command a high and always increasing price, poor copies are comparatively a drug in the market; nobody wants them, or only at a very low figure. Such instances might easily be multiplied, proving what a large element of speculation enters into this business.

But, with all its drawbacks, the trade of second-hand bookselling remains an attractive, interesting, and cultured calling. If all its members do not fulfil the requirements and duties completely, that does not detract from the merits of a most intellectual and commendable pursuit.'

The Periodical, No. XXXI,, contains a capital reproduction of the beautiful engraved title to Patrick Hannay's exiremely rare Sheratine and Mariana, 1622. The number can be had gratis by sending a postcard to the Oxford University Press, Amen Corner, E.C.

C. Richardson, 10 Exchange Arcade, Manchester.—Catalogue of Second-hand Books, No. 42, containing many fine, scarce, and interesting books, valuable sets of the publications of learned societies, rarities from 1495 onwards, a heraldic MS. of 1664, scarce books on Natural History, a Persian MS., colour books, such as Naval Achievements, 1816, Victories of Wellington, 1819, and Foreign Field Sports; first editions, including an immaculate 'Jack Sheppard,' Americana, etc. Quite a catalogue to write for.

Ludwig Rosenthal, 16 Hildegardstrasse, Munich.—Mr. Rosenthal sends three catalogues this quarter, one entitled Théologie Catholique, section He to Ma, containing 1240 lots of Books of Hours (MS. and printed), Liturgies, rare religious illustrated books, histories of religious orders, incunables, etc., in all languages except German; another, Deutsche Sprachdenkmäler und Deutsche Literatur bis 1750, being 2588 lots of works of importance; and Catalogue 116, Incunables Espagnoles. A list of Mr Rosenthal's catalogues still in print, 33 in number, can be obtained on application. The ramifications of this remarkable establishment are too well known to need reiteration.

Wm. Smith & Son, 109 London St., Reading.—Catalogue No. 4, including Library Editions in fine condition, Illustrated Books, First Editions of Scott's Novels, George Meredith, Dickens, etc., Economics, Voyages and Travels, India, and a large number of topographical prints.

Albert Sutton, 43 Bridge St., Manchester.—Voyages and Travels, a Catalogue of Books Ancient and Modern. An important catalogue, of 2335 lots. systematically arranged, under the heads of the countries concerned; the American section alone occupying 17 pages. A reproduction is included from a Dutch work of 1640. Also, a Catalogue of Miscellaneous Books, Ancient and Modern, including America, Lancashire, Old Cookery Books, etc. Mr. Sutton very properly catalogues humorous books under the correct heading of Facetiae. So-called facetious works are generally erotica.

Chas. Thurnam & Sons, 11 English St., Carlisle, issue a Special List of Interesting Local Books:—The Worthies of Cumberland, Billings' Carlisle Cathedral, etc., at greatly reduced prices.

G. Williams, 6 Wells St., Ruthin.—Four Catalogues of Rare Welsh Books, or Books relating to Wales; Dictionaries, Hymns, Bibles, Testaments, Prayer Books, Music, and MSS., some relating to the Druids and Ancient Britons. Stated to be the largest stock of Welsh books in the kingdom.

COLLOQUIALISMS

Most booksellers must have suffered the inconvenience inseparable from the auction-room, by reason of what a well-known littérateur terms its 'fetid atmosphere,' with the ensuing headache and languor. As the place fills with re-breathed air we become lethargic. This could largely be obviated by attention to ventilation, and the provision of electric air-fans. Why not? Such fans are provided in many commercial establishments, and could as easily be fixed in auction-rooms. Also, if I were an auctioneer, I would arrange that cups of tea could be obtainable, from 2.30 p.m. onwards, for a small charge. There is absolutely no difficulty except the want of that will which always finds a way. With a staff of not overworked porters on the premises one could be told off to look after the tea department, and, I am convinced, the bidding would benefit. Another equally-needed reform is the provision of lavatory accommodation. Many a time, during long and wearying sales, a brief 'wash and brush-up,' and a good cup of tea, would send a man back like a giant refreshed, with double the pluck for buying, as well as grateful feelings towards the house for its consideration. One firm does provide a good lavatory, with hot and cold water, and towels; but one only. The suggestion will of course be pooh-poohed, as all new ideas are, but ten years hence, when you have got both these reforms, you will wonder how you ever managed without them. Send me your opinions on the subject, and we will see if they can be crystallised. Of course we shall be told that tea-shops are somewhere just outside, but we don't want to go outside, and perhaps miss the lots we are waiting for, or get tired of it altogether and go home. Myself, I would give the tea to my clients, if only as a matter of policy, but of course we don't want to become cadgers and ask for it. But it would pay to give it, and that is the determining factor in commerce. And there is a precedent also, for, in one auction-room, wines, spirits and cigars are placed on the table at certain sales, so why not the innocent cup of tea for booksellers?

This part contains 453 records from the valuable library of the late Sir Joseph Hawley, sold by Messrs. Hampton & Sons, at Malling, in November.

Mr. D. W. Edwards, of Hull, has sent 2s. 6d. for Mrs. Marshall, which donation has been duly handed to her.

* * *

Please mention B.A.R. whenever possible. The more subscribers there are the more can be done to make it serviceable to everybody.

* * *

The support of country booksellers in particular is requested, for the reason that B. A. R. is one of the greatest of all possible helps to them One of the evils of the modern commercial system is that business becomes too much centralised, and everything of the best and most profitable kind tends to fall into the hands of the few This tendency B A. R. helps the smaller man to contend against. It is infinitely better that five hundred booksellers should make adequate incomes than that five should make big incomes and 495 should make starvation ones. Besides, the dissemination of information is good for the trade, as a whole. Therefore, treat your subscription to B. A. R. as if it were rent—a necessary expense—and thereby add to your income And send me your catalogues, and I will do all that lies in my power to give them wide and profitable advertisement.

* * *

The Athenaeum, Nov. 4, p. 605, in a review of Book-Prices Current, Vol XIX, drew attention to three important omissions of detail. Those omissions are all supplied in B.A.R., Vol 2

* * *

Kindly note that in remittances halfpenny stamps are preferred to penny ones.

The new binding of B.A.R has given great satisfaction to those who have had it. One subscriber writes, "Very much pleased with the volumes." Another writes, "Thanks for sending the vols. There are always pleasant surprises cropping-up in dealing with you"; which is of course stimulating The binding is a warm-red art-linen, with gold lettering, and a set will stand out on a shelf of reference books, and look bright and attractive. If you send your volumes to me they can be bound quickly in this style for 2s., including carriage. A case to match, to keep the loose parts in, costs 6d. A new title can be had, gratis, for Vol 1, so that the set may be uniform. Vol 1, which was remaindered during my illness, is now selling for £1 10s., and will be worth still more.

On Dec 14 a dramatic entertainment was given at St. George's Hall by Mr G. S. Snowden's West Kent Amateur Comedy Company, on behalf of the Booksellers' Provident Institution. The hall was practically packed, for the few vacant seats were really sold, but the holders of the tickets were unable to be present. The entertainment (H. J. Byron's "The Upper Crust," and Mr. Pinero's "Hester's Mystery") was an excellent one, and the Company's own orchestra (30 strong) discoursed sweet music at intervals. At the close, late as it was—11.30 p.m.—Mr. Snowden was called before the curtain, and was accorded a warm reception in acknowledgment of his arduous work in organising the function. With his natural modesty he declined the invitatfon to make a speech. Among the Old Guard present were Mr. H. H. Hodgson and Mr. E. Parsons, and among others I noticed Mr. Quaritch, Mr. Tregaskis, and Mr. Rimell. The Institution benefited to the extent of not less than £40. Special thanks are due to Mr. Snowden (of "Sotheby's") for his enterprise and public spirit in conceiving this affair and bringing it to a successful issue, and we want more of this kind of thing in bookselling. Why should not the younger members of the trade form a Booksellers' Dramatic Club and give two performances yearly for similar purposes? I am much too busy to take any share in the work myself, but will gladly collect the names of any who like the idea, and will call a meeting of them. The feeling of comradeship evinced on the 14th was a very delightful feature, and the matter should not begin and end there.

The cover has been permanently changed to a lighter tint in order to give greater effect to matter printed upon it.

* * *

Mr. J. W. Jarvis, formerly of the Chaucer Book Co., has opened some Auction Rooms at 28-30 Hanway St., for the sale of furniture, curios, pictures, engravings, and books. His experience among the latter items should be of service to his clients, and as he possesses unbounded energy, and a breezy manner especially suited to that class of business, the venture should be successful. I am told that it shows every sign of being so.

* * *

A few trifling errors in vol. 2 (kindly pointed out by subscribers) were omitted from the table of Errata.

PAGE
17. Bibliothèque de Barabas should be 'de Carabas.'
646. Pope (A.) The Wish—should be Pope (W.), and 564 instead of 464.
648. Purchas (S.) Hakluytus Posthumus; 556 should be 566.
654 Shakespeare. Much Ado About Nothing, 1585, should be 1858.

Where, however, the error is only one of number, the inconvenience is all but nullified by the alphabetical arrangement, as any book indexed must be in one or other of the quarterly parts. One bookseller, in fact, thought there was no need for an Index at all, but I don't agree with him. It saves time, and time is money.

* * *

I have great pleasure in drawing special attention to Mr. Sawyer's advertisement on p. 4 of the cover. Mr. Sawyer began his bookselling career at 11 years of age, when he was at the very foot of the ladder, has had 20 years' experience with Messrs. Parsons & Sons, the late Mr. J. E. Cornish, of Manchester, and as Assistant Manager for Mrs. Lazarus. He is a worker: means business; and is bound to do well now that he has achieved every capable man's ambition of starting for himself.

* * *

Some of the prices recorded in B. A. R. are very small; sometimes as low as one shilling; but in every case the book will be found to possess interest, and a real guide to values should indicate small prices as well as large ones.

Instructions to Young Cataloguers (a Revisal of Current Errors) :—

1. The author of 'Poems by the Knight of Morar' was Sir William Fraser; not G. Cruikshank.
2. The author of 'Adventures of Mr. and Mrs. Sandboys' was Henry Mayhew; not G. Cruikshank.
3. The author of 'An Academy for Grown Horsemen and Annals of Horsemanship' was H. Bunbury. 'Gambado' was merely his pseudonym.
4. A binding with doublures should not be described as being 'with doublé.' It is grammatically impossible to use a verb as the equivalent of a noun.
5. Sir Francis Bacon is still dubbed Lord Bacon. This is sheer cussedness, as I have already pointed out that no such person ever existed. Why write yourselves down Asses, for all men of education to gibe at? One genius has gone a step further this quarter, and has boldly styled the author 'Lord F. Bacon,' as if he were a cadet of his own house!

* * *

Subscribers who order through agents should in every case notify us of the fact. This is of Importance.

* * *

Further evidence is to hand respecting the impostor who obtained money by reporting books to the trade. On May 17, a post-card, in the same hand as that of "E. Brown," was posted at Balham, S.W., with the address 2 Ravenswood Road, Balham, but in the name of R. Marchmont, reporting a book for 6/-. The cash was sent by immediate return, to the Balham address, and the postal order was cashed on the same day that it was received, viz., May 18, at the Waterloo Road, S.E. Post-office. The impostor, whoever he may be, had therefore evidently procured possession of the postal order from the false address at Balham—possibly with the aid of a confederate—and had cashed it in the Waterloo Road. It appears, also, that "E. Brown" is not, as first stated, a short man; and he has many aliases. It is also believed that the post-cards were not in "E. Brown's" own handwriting. I have much further, and very serious evidence in my possession, but this is all that need be said at present.

* * *

Nine-tenths of the second-hand booksellers of the British Isles now subscribe to B.A.R., while applications from America, Russia, Italy, France, and Germany are constant. So all's well. My only regret is that so much matter gets crowded out of this section. For bibliographical space has limits.

Mr. Edwin Parsons

MR. EDWIN PARSONS

If it be taken for granted that a state of civilisation is an advance upon the barbaric life—a postulate not admitted by every one—then the self-made man must be one of its highest triumphs, for the reason that without him civilisation would never have existed. The self made man is the crystallisation of progress, and the pre-historic individual who depicted the mammoth on a slab of stone was the forerunner of the President of the Royal Academy. The other kind of man mostly lands himself in the palace of idleness euphemistically styled the 'work-house'; in which he is gratuitously provided with food, bedding, electric-light, and other necessaries, because he is unfit to provide them for himself. Thus civilisation flies in the face of Nature, for Nature, instead of coddling the worthless and shedding tears over the weak, invariably crushes them for the benefit of the race.

Mr. Parsons is a self-made man, and, to his credit be it said, he does not hesitate to avow it. A worker is, properly, proud of his ascent in the scale of worth. It is the idler who is always ready to descant upon his descent; even if it be only from the hetairai of kings.

Mr. Parsons was born at Sandown, Isle of Wight, on February 11th, 1836, and is consequently in his seventy-first year. At nine years of age he was sent up to London to see if he could make his fortune, and he learned bookselling under the late Mr James Rimell, who was then in Goodge Street, Tottenham Court Road, and received what he himself describes as "a good schooling in the old book and print trade." On St Patrick's Day, 1858, he started in business for himself at 47 Brompton Road, and his resources were of the most slender description, for, he says, "I did not possess, in books and cash, more than £20 in the wide, wide world." Three days after opening his premises Mr. Rimell called upon him and offered to send in five hundred pounds' worth of books, and take him into partnership with him. "I thanked him," says Mr. Parsons, "but told him I had had a master long enough, and now wanted to try my own luck, feeling confident of success. Mr. Rimell, looking round, said I had no stock at all. I told him that all my stock was outside on the stall, and that if I could get a living from my present stock I should do better by and by."

After a few years Mr. Parsons removed next door, to No. 45 Brompton Road, and he continues, "Thanks to hard work and close attention to business I gradually worked my way up, and secured many patrons and customers, towards whom I shall always feel the greatest gratitude. Amongst these I remember many men of note: Thackeray, Mario, Tom Taylor, Mark Lemon, Albert Smith, Carlyle, Sir Theodore Martin, Sala, Lord Leighton, G. F. Watts, R.A., Whistler, Sir Alma Tadema, Sir Henry Cole, Mr Soden Smith, librarian of the Art Library, South Kensington, Burne-Jones, Sir E Poynter, Charles Keene, Millais, and many others." Asked whether he remembered any characteristics of his customers Mr. Parsons replied, "Thackeray invariably bowed his head low when passing through a doorway, no matter how high it might be He was a man of very few words, and on leaving would say loftily, 'Send them home to Mr. Thackeray.' Carlyle was a very curious old chap. He would come up with his niece at nine o'clock in the morning and always selected his purchases from the twopenny or the fourpenny box. He had a big stick; he never spent more than fourpence or sixpence; and he never came inside. Sala was also a patron of the twopenny box in the early days, he never picked his books himself. He would order me to tie up six dozen of the twopenny books while he went round the corner to get a cigar, and he would return and take them away without having seen them. In after years he became one of my best customers for valuable Art Books." As to some of his experiences at auctions Mr. Parsons said, "Years ago a great many more libraries of fine books were sold by auction in the country places than now, and as there were fewer facilities for travelling there were fewer buyers, and one had much greater opportunities of picking up rarities. On these occasions I used to meet such old friends as Mr. Walford, Mr. Quaritch, Mr. Roche, Mr. Reeves, Mr Rimell, and Mr Jackson, most of whom are amongst us no more. Yes; I have had my share of good luck. I once went to a sale, and seeing on the floor a roll of drawings I bought them for a few pounds, and sold five of them for £1,000. To-day they are worth much more. On another occasion I bought five large full-length mezzotints after Sir Joshua Reynolds, for two shillings and sixpence, three of them being choice proofs So little had been thought of them that the lot number had been stuck on the engravings themselves. I remember once, upon entering the sale-room at Christie's, a valuable book was just being knocked down for ten shillings and sixpence I shouted out, Three guineas and a half, and secured it. Quaritch slapped me on the shoulder, and said, 'You are a plucky young fellow. We will take you into the Brotherhood. Mr. Christie leaned back in the rostrum, folded his arms, and smiled meaningly. Once again, at Christie's, the entire remaining stock of Turner's Picturesque Views in England and Wales was sold by order of the Court of Chancery, in connection with some family lawsuit. I had just previously given £22 for a copy, but I bought three hundred copies at Christie's for a trifle over £300. Mr. Christie was very friendly. Once, I had bought a miniature, and after it was delivered to me a dispute arose as to whether the wrong lot had been sold, and Mr. Christie said the lot must be offered again. I said No, sir, it is mine. I bought it. Mr. Christie then said, Well, will you allow it be offered again as a personal favour; to which I replied Certainly. The miniature realised twice as much as before, and I did not buy it, but in the course of the same evening a barrel of oysters arrived, with Mr. Christie's compliments. My wife thought what a lucky thing it was I didn't buy the miniature. I couldn't help wondering how many barrels of oysters I might have bought with the profit of the miniature. We are never satisfied, you see! Soon after starting in business I remember going to a sale in very hot weather, and several members of the Brotherhood were present. After the sale they all disappeared, and I wondered what had become of them. I was quite satisfied with the books I had bought, and, shouldering the heavy load in a bag that I brought, I made tracks over a field-path for the railway, perspiring freely. Just before reaching the station an hotel had to be passed, and as I was getting by Toovey came out into the porch, beckoned to me with his finger, and called out, Hi! young man! We've been waiting for you! I did not take those books home with me to London, you bet. . . . I have had the honour of supplying books to the Emperor Frederick of Germany, King Victor Emmanuel, Queen Victoria, the Duke of Edinburgh, Princess Louise, &c. I also sold to the Prime Minister of the King of Siam ten tons of books of great value. It was the heaviest deal I ever had."

And now there is just time for a walk round before darkness hides the surroundings. Our old friend has ceased to hold the slightest interest in the business which he built up, and has retired to spend the evening of his days in a charming old-fashioned house at Putney, not far from the banks of the Thames, only some four miles from the scene of his life's work, where his two sons reign in his stead. His domestic life was of the happiest, but the wife who shared the heat and burden of the early struggles died a few years ago, and one of his sons, together with his wife, lives with him and preserves the atmosphere of home, while nine or ten grandchildren visit him on occasion and recall his own earlier days. The house stands well back from the road, with the whole of the garden in front of it, and all the rooms overlook the lawn. In the centre is an arbour large enough to contain twenty persons, formed by an immense variegated holly, and beside it is a flagstaff on which the Union Jack floats upon special occasions. Dogs are there; and robins, thrushes, blackbirds, and starlings give summer thanks for the food thrown out daily during winter by the hands of the master himself. Inside the house one finds choice old crown Derby china: water-colour drawings by S. Alken, J. S. Cotman, and others; oil-paintings by Sir Thomas Lawrence, Sir David Wilkie, Watteau, Lancret, Boucher, J. F. Herring, George Morland, Sir Joshua Reynolds, and Gerard Douw; a pastel of Lady Hamilton as a bacchante, by Russell; also portrait of Lady Walsingham and son, by the same artist, from Garrick's house, and rare proof engravings by Cousins, and these are what Mr. Parsons terms the "crumbs" from the banquet of life. He may be well satisfied with the result of his investment of £20 in books, plus brains and energy.

And now you want to know more particularly what manner of man Mr. Parsons is. Well; look at his portrait, taken in 1899, and representing him almost precisely as he appears to-day. Age has slightly touched him since, but only slightly. The whimsical, half-laughing expression of the eyes remains just as I remember it forty years ago. The shrewdness which enabled him to become a highly-successful business-man is pictured in the face. That behind the shrewdness lies a deeply affectionate nature I have had more than one opportunity of guessing. His very hat was a part of him, and it earned him among booksellers the sobriquet of "The Brigand." One who has had far greater chances of observing him than I have had says, "He was never idle; in fact we used to say, (when he was not near), 'give him a pair of scissors and a few old prints, and he will play for hours': he was never happier than when carpentering; new shelves, picture stands, &c., being his particular forte—the saw was usually a borrowed one, for, said he, 'its no use having neighbours if one doesn't use them.' The London County Council bought the old stall, to widen the road; and as it was being demolished he looked at the wreck for a moment, and then said, 'I am like Helen weeping over the ruins of Troy'—a 16-stone Helen, Troy weight! I once heard him say that he did not love money for money's sake. I should say in a few words, perhaps vulgar ones, but true nevertheless and fit for his tombstone,

'He is alright when you know him,
But you've got to know him first'

A large reward could safely be offered for the apprehension of one who knew him. We caught, one bitter wet night, a poor half-starved fellow walking off with a book, and a policeman and the guv'nor made him turn his pockets out. A curious collection of pawntickets touched his heart, and he let the poor devil go, and gave him some money. Can we end on a better note than that? I think not; with the sole addition of heartily wishing Mr. Parsons long continuance of life, with love, honour, and troops of friends.

COLLOQUIALISMS

No response was made to my suggestion that assistants and others might form a Booksellers' Dramatic Club, so the matter falls to the ground.

* * *

Address wanted of G. F. Curtis, late of Langrick Parsonage, Boston, Lincolnshire.

As the result of a suggestion made in The Athenæum the "Key to Sales" issued with the quarterly parts of Book Auction Records will in future include a statement of the total sum realized by each library.

* * *

The first really serious error in B.A.R. vol. 2 has been discovered, and I hasten to indicate it. On page 129 (third item from the top) is the record of a copy of Shakespeare's Comedies, Histories, and Tragedies, fourth edition, 1685, stated to have sold for £10. The price was £101, and I hope every subscriber will correct the amount in his copy. When tens of thousands of figures are dealt with annually it is impossible to know to whom the fault of dropping a numeral should be ascribed, whether to the copyist, to myself when revising the proof-sheets, or to the printer at the last moment, after the passing of the revises. All that can be done is to make known the existence of the error.

The following appeared in Notes and Queries, January 6th, 1906, and should be made a note of in Lowndes.

BEN JONSON'S WORKS, 1616.—Old errors die hard, and among them is the belief that the 1616 folio of Ben Jonson contained the portrait of the poet by Vaughan. I am reminded of this by the words "no portrait" added to the record of a sale of this volume, together with the posthumous second volume, in The Athenæum of 9 December. On this subject the late Mr. George Bullen, of the British Museum, wrote to me in 1870 as follows:—

"We have two copies of Ben Jonson, 1616, fol.: one in the General Library, and one in the Grenville. The former has no portrait; the latter has one by Vaughan, the same that appears in the 1640 edition. Mr. Grenville in a note states 'I have added to my copy the head of Vaughan.' Now Vaughan, according to Nagler, 'Kunstler Lexikon,' was born in 1610, so that it is scarcely probable he could have done this portrait in 1616." H. A. EVANS.

To all men of education. Please understand that the capital I of the word importance on page vi (line 33) vol. 3, part 1, was not one of my crimes. It was merely one of the compositor's little games. The paragraph was inserted at the last moment, and it was impossible for me to see a revise.

Re the impostor who styled himself "E. Brown" and obtained money on false pretences. If you have not divined his personality from the paragraph in Part 1 you ought to have done so, for it is well known to most of you. I, myself, was not the least of the sufferers by his malpractices. As, however, his career among booksellers and bookselling is probably at last played-out the matter can rest where it is. If he should ever raise his head again I have only to produce certain documentary evidence which is in my possession. If he is wise he will seek fresh fields and pastures new in which to exercise his ingenuities, and preferably not in the neighbourhood of Scotland Yard.

* * *

We hear much about the decay of business, and the dying-out of the old class of collector. The latter is inevitable, and has probably always been the subject of lament on the part of the bookseller. The question is whether the bookseller does his best to create a new class of collector. The thought is prompted by the following letter from one of my subscribers:—"I gave a paper to the ——— Literary Club on Bibliomania on Monday last, and the examples of Rare, Quaint, and Illustrated Books which I was able to show seemed to me to be very highly appreciated. We have no good buyers in ——— now. There were a few some years ago, but they are all dead and gone. The other booksellers here blame the Public Libraries, but I think we lack the missionary instinct. We don't preach enough to the heathen." Surely this hits the nail on the head. If we educate ourselves up to the ability to talk about what we have to sell we shall surely open up new markets. I don't believe a single collector was ever spoilt by a Public Library. On the contrary, the Library is likely to be a factor in creating a taste for literature, leading thence eventually to the desire to acquire books for oneself.

* * *

Instructions to Young Cataloguers (a Revisal of Current Errors):—

1. The first edition of Tennyson's Poems with illustrations by Millais is 1859, not 1866.
2. The first edition of Thackeray's 'Four Georges' is 1861, not 1862.
3. J. Y. Akerman was the author of Tales of Other Days, 1830.
4. The anonymous author of 'Greenwich Hospital' 1826, was Capt. Barker, not George Cruikshank.
5. The author of 'Tim Bobbin's Lancashire Dialect' was John Collier, not John Payne Collier, who was another person altogether. Lowndes gives the name correctly, so there is no excuse.
6. 'Old red French morocco' should be 'old French red morocco.' This is a trifle, but trifles make up the sum of life, and the inexact in small things are likely to be inexact in big ones,
7. 'Old panel calf.' What does this mean? Do you intend to say 'old panelled calf'? If so, say it.
8. Discretion is required in the matter of scattering about such terms as extremely scarce and exceedingly rare. When lots so labelled realise only two or three shillings the value of the term is weakened when applied to really rare and desiderated books.
9. The 'Lord Bacon' heresy is slowly dying a natural death, although it still crops up in varied forms in the work of cataloguers who are not yet quite sure of their ground. The latest form is while Tennyson is styled 'Lord A. Tennyson,' (as if he were his own son) instead of 'Alfred, Lord Tennyson,' or, better still, plain 'Lord Tennyson.' The gaucherie should be suppressed entirely.

* * *

Paste-Watering.—Old calf bindings are often more or less "perished" in places, i.e., the surface has been rubed off through years of use. The process of decay can be arrested in the following manner. Mix a teaspoonful of ordinary paste in a saucer of water, and apply it with a fine sponge over the whole surface of the binding. Place the book on a shelf till next day, and then thoroughly polish the cover with a soft rag, or best of all, an old silk handkerchief. The saleab'eness of the book will be greatly enhanced, The paste-water must not be too thick, or the result will be streakiness instead of a fine polished surface, but experience will soon show what consistency to use. A bookseller who had never heard of the process recently asked me about it, so I give the particulars. Some persons varnish old bindings, but this ruins and vulgarises them.

* * *

For some years past a Hindoo, or Parsee, named "Seale," has been victimizing booksellers. Recently, in consequence of an enquiry from a subscriber, I unearthed this man at a newsagent's shop, 36 Duke Street, Manchester Square, London. From this address, writing in the name of "H. Marsden," he has been endeavouring to obtain valuable books from country dealers. When I called a pile of correspondence was awaiting him, as he had been too poor the previous night, to pay the necessary pence to obtain his letters. For the protection of subscribers I give the following facsimile of part of a letter written by him on April 4, 1906.

I shall esteem it a favour if you will buy & send them for me, if you do not happen to have them in stock, as early as possible, as I have lost a large portion of my books & am now endeavouring to replace them.

Yours truly,

H. Marsden.

The Publishers' Circular, December 9, 1905, in a notice of a catalogue issued by Cornish Bros., of Birmingham, says, 'There is one feature about it with which we cordially agree, and that is the abolition of full-points and all other points except where the sense of a passage makes them quite necessary. On a title-page, for example, a great black blot at the end of a line is a positive disfigurement as well as wholly useless. This is a matter that cannot be too fully insisted on. A bookseller is supposed to be an educated man, and when he sprinkles over his pages stops of varied degrees, at random as if out of a pepper-pot, he writes himself down an ignoramus. I have myself pointed out the absurdity, times without number, even to apparently well-educated printers and others, and the only response has been an amused smile that seemed to indicate the opinion that I had a bee in my bonnet on the subject. A printer once told me that after a certain number of words he always put in a comma, to give the reader time to take breath! That man was probably the printer of Pickwick, for Dickens was the arch-sinner in the matter of punctuation

RECENT BOOKSELLERS' CATALOGUES

(ARRANGED ALPHABETICALLY)

Thomas Carver, 8 High Town, Hereford.—The Hereford Leaflet of Ancient and Modern Literature contains First Editions of Charlotte Brontë, Goldsmith, Meredith, Scott, &c,, old Cookery Books, rare Alken prints (cheap) &c., &c. A large woodcut of "Part of the Chained Library, (presumably of Hereford Cathedral) lends great interest to the catalogue, and should tempt many a biblophile first to look at, and then to read it."

H. G. Commin, 100 Old Christchurch Road, Bournemouth.—Catalogue of Manuscripts, Illuminations, Missal and Printed Horæ, Incunabula, including fine ex- of Nic. Jenson, Radtholt, Zarotos, &c, Books printed during the Tudor and Stuart Periods, 1500-1688, Eighteenth Century books, also Notable Modern Presses, including the Kelmscott Press and General Alphabet, including first editions, &c. A highly important catalogue, with 17 admirable reproductions of illuminations from mediæval MSS., Jenson type, 1478, woodcuts in Books of "Hours," engraved title-pages, &c. The old-time booksellers were without the advantage of cheap illustration by process-blocks, and the method makes catalogues worth preserving, with of course increased chances of business. Mr. Commin's is an ideal country-bookseller's catalogue.

S. V. Galloway, New Street, Aberyswyth.—Catalogue of Interesting and Valuable Books, including, specially, Classical, Early Children's Books, and Wales. The set of Millais Illustrations for the Cornhill should be very cheap at 1/-. Mr. Galloway is removing to larger premises, and issues also a Clearance Catalogue in connection therewith

Galloway & Porter, 30 Sidney Street, Cambridge—Catalogue of Books in all Branches of Literature—Angling, Art, Brewing, Cambridge, Classics, Economics, History, Natural Science, Mathematics, Theology, and other subjects. A Catalogue of Old and rare Mathematical Books can be obtained post free on application.

William George's Sons, 89 Park Street, Bristol.—Catalogue 289 contains Alpine books, Architecture, Bibliography, Egypt, India, Numismata, Scandinavia, &c., &c., and includes a nearly uncut copy of the Nuremberg Chronicle, with the Latin text. Messrs. George's establishment is admirably named, i.e., The Cabot Book Store.

J. G. Glover, 8 Terminus Buildings, Eastbourne—Catalogue No. 3, containing First Editions of Coleridge, Defoe, Dickens, Scott, &c., also Americana, Art, Economics, Napoleonic Period, Poetry, Voyages and Travels, and Sport. Minshe's Guide to Tongues, 1627, is one of the older and rarer books included.

Holland Bros., 21 John Bright Street, Birmingham.—Catalogues of well selected Miscellaneous Books, including Dibdin's Bibliographical Tour in France and Germany, 1821, £8 8s; European Costumes, 7 vols., 1800-15, £8 15s; Celebrated Trials, 6 vols, 1821, £4 18s 6d; Secretes of Alexis, 1614, £2 10s, &c., &c. An Educational Catalogue, 32 pp. can be had, post free.

G. T. Juckes & Co., 85 Aston Street, Birmingham—Calalogue of Choice Books in various departments of Literature, by the best Authors, including many hand some works from the Library of the late C. E. Mathews, Esq. (Founder of the Alpine Club), also a Collection of Books by Rudyard Kipling, comprising first editions in Original Cloth, and a Collection of the Original Tales and Poems taken from the Magazines in which they appeared, from Kipling's Earliest Appearance in England—viz., his Poems signed "Yussuf" in Macmillan's Magazine, 1889, to date; and a Unique Collection of "Kiplingiana." Apperley's Life of a Sportsman, 1842; Dugdale's St Paul's, 1658-1715, and the Gentleman's Magazine, 1731-1842, are other attractive items.

Lowe Bros., 49 Newhall Street, Birmingham.—Catalogue 692, an important Collection of Valuable Books under the heads of Africa, America, Australia, Black Letter Books, Botany, Coloured Plates, Conchology, Costumes, Portraits, Sporting, &c., including a complete set of Notes and Queries to 1902.

Lupton Bros., 38-40 Manchester Road, Burnley.—Catalogue of Ancient and Modern Books from Libraries recently dispersed, including Works of Art, The Sciences, History, Travel, Discussions, Rationalism, Philosophy, Topography, and an Addenda of Cheap Literature. Curtis's Botanical Magazine, 48 vols. £12. and Parkinson's Theater of Plants, 1640, £3 3s. are among the more important items.

J. Mackenzie, 238 Buchanan Street, Glasgow.—Catalogue of Miscellaneous Literature, from the Library of Mrs. Elder, &c., including a large number of works on Glasgow and Scotland, and 17 columns of Theology.

Alex. W. Macphail, 6 St. Giles Street, Edinburgh.—Rarities in Scottish and other Literature, including the first edition of Guy Mannering (very fine copy), some 16th century books, and 6 Autograph Letters by Sir Walter Scott, with the postage marks.

James Miles, 32 Guildford St., Leeds.—Catalogue No. 13, comprising purchases from the Libraries of Sir Joseph Hawley, C. E. Mathews, Esq. (President of the Alpine Club); also the privately-purchased Scientific Library of the late William Ackroyd (Borough Analyst of Halifax), and other recent purchases: General Literature, Science, largely Chemistry, Yorkshire Topography, Old Literature of the 16th, 17th, and 18th Centuries. A fine Large Paper Copy of Surtees' History of Durham, 1816, with Raine's North Durham, heads a list which includes many very attractive items.

Joseph Milligan, Welton Mount, Leeds.—Catalogue of interesting Books in various classes of Literature, comprising First and best Editions of Standard Authors, including Surtees' Jorrock's Jaunts, Mr. Sponge's Sporting Tour, Handley Cross, Plain or Ringlets, &c. &c., Thackeray's Paris Sketch Book, Vanity Fair, Books of Snobs, Baily's Magazine of Sports and Pastimes, Suckling's Fragmenta Aurea, with the rare portrait by Marshall, Historical MSS. Reports, a set, Voltaire's Romans, &c. magnificently bound, and other books with fine bindings, many works relating to America, the Drama, Ireland, Wales, English Topography, &c. The first item is Hakluyt's Principal Navigations, Voyages, and Discoveries, 1589, very fine copy, £26 10s.

Neville & George, 25 Alfred Place West, South Kensington, London.—Catalogue No. 1, including Britton's Architectural Antiquities, Williamson's Cosway, Dublin's Tours, Denon's Egypt, Dowell's Taxation, Hasted's Kent (Second edition), Works of Horace Walpole, Waring's Masterpieces, Evelyn and Pepys' Memoirs, Art and Standard Books, (many in choice bindings by Riviere and others), Alpine, Economics, Early Printed, Geology, Mineralogy, Occult, Scotland, etc. An excellent Catalogue for a start, and full of promise.

Martinus Nijhoff, Nobelstraat 18, La Haye.—Livres Rares et Curieux; Livres Anciens et Modernes; Beaux Arts, Histoire et Biographies des Peintres. Two highly important catalogues of books from 1476 onwards, printed in large, clear type, well spaced out, and therefore eminently readable. The first catalogue contains 888 entries, each one being what is termed "a book," and with notes in English to the works in that language. A block of the interior of M. Nijhoff's premises is added, and a branch establishment is to be found at 45 William Street, New York.

John Orr, 74 George Street, Edinburgh.—Catalogue of Second-Hand Books, including America, Architecture, Art, Early Editions of Burns, Ramsay, &c., Family History, Heraldry, Ireland, India, Local History, Scotland, Trade, &c. Also some Early Printed Books, from 1480, Parsons & Sons, 45 Brompton Road, London.—Catalogue No. 258, of Old and Modern Second-Hand Books, including some rare and very fine works on Architecture, the Fine Arts generally, Costumes, India, Military, Original Drawings, Portraits, &c., and some interesting Mementos of Sir Henry Irving. The gem of the catalogue however, is not a book at all, but the Original Bronze Statuette of Thackeray by Sir Edgar Boehm, made in the last year of the novelist's life. It is undoubtely the most characteristic portrait of Thackeray in existence, and equally valuable also as a work of art. It seems cheap at the price asked, i.e. £100.

G. A. Poynder, 96 Broad Street, Reading.—Second-Hand Book List of Important Works and Serial Publications on Miscellaneous and Scientific Subjects:—Botany, Natural History, Travels, India, &c.; also a Clearance Catalogue at 15 per cent. discount. Mr Poynder's highly picturesque premises—of which a block is given—should alone make a visit to Reading worth making.

Shepard Book Co, Salt Lake City, Utah, U.S.A.—Catalogues 14 to 19, of Americana, Rare Books, Occult, Drama, Scientific, First Editions, Law Books, Book-Plates, Autograph Letters, Travels, Roycroft Books, Sports, Napoleoniana, Elston Press, United States and State Publications, Rare and Early American Imprints, &c &c., from which the very wide scope of this establishment can be realised. A very applicable punning motto, from William Morris, with woodcut, is on each catalogue.

Wm. Smith & Son, 109-111 London Street, Reading.—Catalogue of Old, Rare, and Curious, as well as some Modern Second-Hand Books, and a Small Collection of Portraits. Contains old Legal and Military Books, Occult Literature, Trials, Economics, India, Chap Books, America and West Indies, &c., &c. A new and very excellent idea is the inclusion of a Place-Index to locally-published items.

Albert Sutton, 43 Bridge Street, Manchester.—Catalogue of Magazines, Periodicals, and Transactions of Learned Societies, suitable for Public or Private Libraries. This is a representative selection of Mr. Sutton's stock, and enquiry should be made for desiderated items not included.

THE GRAND PUMP ROOM, BATH
(18TH CENTURY).

The old White Hart on the right facing the Colonnade will be familiar to readers of Dickens as the famous hostelry where Mr. Pickwick and his friends stayed on their visit to Bath.

Published by permission of the Corporation of Bath.

"GO TO BATH."

There is an old popular saying, "Go to Bath!" the origin of which is lost in the mists of antiquity, but as the baths of Bath have from time immemorial been a sovereign remedy for all the ills to which flesh is heir it is not improbable that the phrase was current among the consulting physicians of eighteen centuries ago, or, for all we know, prehistoric man may there have cured himself of the evils resulting from the bites of the Gollywog. Anyhow, people went to Bath, and all appear to have much "enjoyed themselves," as the phrase goes. The first on record to do so were the Romans, and there they constructed a wonderful series of thermæ, long before the baths of Titus and Caracalla were built at Rome. These baths covered from six to seven acres, were built over and lost to sight after the close of the Roman Occupation of Britain, and, during recent years, as the result of excavations, five great baths have been disclosed. To view these magnificent remains of a former civilisation is one, and a very excellent, reason why one should "go to Bath." But the more particular ground for selecting Bath as a subject for illustration is the fact that, through its Pump Room, Bath is associated with the literature of our native tongue. For Beau Nash was Master of the Ceremonies of the first Pump Room, and Oliver Goldsmith wrote his 'Life,' while the dear old friend of our boyhood, Mr. Pickwick—well, we all know, or, if we don't, can read, what happened to him at Bath, and we can to-day visit these scenes, if we will, by following the sensible old-time advice to go there. The original Pump Room was erected in 1704, under the auspices of Nash, and in 1707 he caused a series of rules, remarkable for their originality of expression, to be put up and observed at the Bath Assemblies, of which one alone must suffice as an example:—

That all Repeaters of Lies and Scandal be shun'd by all Company:—except such as have been guilty of the same Crime, which proves that Nash fully recognised the existence of the most despicable and most universal characteristic of human nature. One almost wonders whether he had a prophetic eye to the editors of modern Society Journals. Partington tells us that while in the plenitude of his power and popularity Nash lived in the most splendid style. His dress was covered with expensive lace, and he wore a large white cocked hat. The chariot in which he rode was drawn by six grey horses, and attended by a long retinue of servants, some on horse, others on foot, while his progress through the streets was made known by a band of French-horns and other instruments. His common title was King of Bath. Smollett introduces him in "Roderick Random," and when he died in 1761 the Corporation of Bath honoured him with a public funeral. During his time, and long afterwards, Bath was the resort of the élite of English society, from the king and queen downwards, for in those days our aristocracy was not decadent, and spent its winters among its own yeomen and peasants. In 1796 the building had become inadequate to the growing requirements of the place, and it was demolished, the present Grand Pump Room being erected on its site, from Mr. Baldwin's designs, varied by the suggestions of Sir John Soane, afterwards architect of the Bank of England. We cannot perhaps do better than read Dickens's description of the scenes within its walls, as given in Pickwick:—

'The great pump-room is a spacious saloon, ornamented with Corinthian pillars, and a music gallery and a Tompion clock, and a statue of Nash, and a golden inscription, to which all the water-drinkers should attend, for it appeals to them in the cause of a deserving charity. There is a large bar with a marble vase, out of which the pumper gets the water, and a number of yellow-looking tumblers, out of which the company get it; and it is a most edifying and satisfactory sight to behold the perseverance and gravity with which they swallow it. There are baths near at hand in which a part of the company wash themselves, and a band plays afterwards to congratulate the remainder on their having done so. There is another pump-room, into which infirm ladies and gentlemen are wheeled in such an astonishing variety of chairs and chaises that any adventurous individual who goes in with the regular number of toes is in imminent danger of coming out without them : and there is a third, into which the quiet people go, for it is less noisy than either. There is an immensity of promenading, on crutches and off with sticks and without : and a great deal of conversation and liveliness and pleasantry.

Every morning the regular water-drinkers, Mr. Pickwick among the number, met each other in the pump-room, took their quarter of a pint, and walked constitutionally. At the afternoon's promenade Lord Mutanhed and the Honourable Mr. Crushton, the Dowager Lady Snuphanuph, Mrs. Colonel Wugsby, and all the great people and all the morning water-drinkers met in grand assemblage. After this they walked out, or drove out, or were pushed out in bath chairs, and met one another again. After this the gentlemen went to the reading-rooms and met divisions of the mass. After this they went home. If it were theatre night perhaps they met at the theatre ; if it were assembly night they met at the rooms ; and if it were neither they met the next day—a very pleasant routine, with perhaps a slight tinge of sameness.'

Here then is the very room, statue of Nash, Tompion-clock, and all, just as Dickens saw it, but for its renovations, and if that is not sufficient reason to "go to Bath" I know no better. Among the visitors of note was Madame d'Arblay (Fanny Burney), who, in 1817, introduced her husband to Queen Charlotte at one of her Majesty's levees in the Pump Room during the Queen's residence in the city. Then there are the Assembly Rooms to be seen, built from the designs of the younger Wood, and opened in 1771. Sheridan was present at the opening, and wrote some verses commemorative of the occasion, and here Walter Savage Landor and William Beckford—giant among bibliophiles—met their future brides. And here is the historic card-room in which Mr. Pickwick played his immortal game of whist with the elderly dowagers.

Not far away is Queen Square, where Sam Weller paid his visit to Angelo Cyrus Bantam, M.C., and higher up in the town is The Crescent, round which Mr. Winkle fled in his dressing-gown at dead of night, with Major Dowler after nim with a carving-knife. Then there is the "Beaufort Arms," the little back parlour of which was the scene of the "swarry" Sam Weller himself is claimed for Bath, one of the oldest inhabitants having recently declared to a representative of The Daily Chronicle that "Sam" was ostler at the York House Tap, and afterwards kept a livery-stable in Bath "Was he like the Sam Weller in the book?" the old gentleman was asked. "Ah," said he, "I don't know anything about the book, but I knowed old Zam. He was a vine veller, he was" "Go to Bath?" I should think so indeed! By the first train!

What more is to be seen in Bath, and in its environs, of high historic interest, no space remains to tell, but the beautifully-illustrated guide (including 8 coloured plates, one being the interior of the Pump Room) issued by the Corporation for one shilling, will show the stranger what there is that must not be missed, and will serve ever after as a charming souvenir In it he will find mention of Pepys the Diarist, and his wife Betty Turner, Queen Catherine of Braganza, Jane Austen, Fielding, Gainsborough, Pitt, Quin the actor, Wolfe, Lawrence, Scott, Wesley. Mrs. Thrale, Mrs. Siddons, Byron, Wordsworth, and many another name of note.

There is however, one special reason why every reader of B.A.R. should go to Bath, viz , that this city is one of the centres of English bookselling. It is stated, for instance that there are more booksellers in Bath to the square foot, or per inhabitant, than in any other city of Great Britain south of Edinburgh. My informant says "Why and how this has come about Goodness only knows! Certainly it is not because of the reading proclivities of its inhabitants. The city recently had £13,000 offered it for a Free Library, but the idea of ever having to pay a penny rate to allow other peop'e to read novels (no one here seems able to apprehend any loftier ideal than 'novels'), at the city's expense, was revolutionary. The matter was referred to the citizens, and they decided by 3 to 1 that the whole thing was monstrous, and could not be tolerated in the Queen City of the West. So why more of us are here as fixtures than in any other city is a mystery." The writer was referring to the proposed establishment of a Free Lending Library. There is already a Free Reference Library, erected at great cost, in connection with the Art Gallery, as a Jubilee Memorial to Queen Victoria, a magnificent palatial building. According to Clegg's "Directory of Booksellers" there are seventeen book firms in Bath, five of which deal in second-hand books more or less rare, and, taking them in alphabetical order, I propose to make a bibliopolic tour of the city. Mr Harold Cleaver, of 9, New Bond Street Place, started there in 1892. To him Library Editions of Standard Works are a chief delight, although, as in almost every provincial town, no one can afford to specialise entirely to the exclusion of general stock. Mr F. S. Cleaver, of 15, Northumberland Place, is another member of the same family, and, before commencing for himself in April 1904, he was for nine years in his brother's establishment. Northumberland Place has the advantage, from the bibliophile's point of view, of being quieter than many of the thoroughfares of the city, while it is in one of the most central spots, being but two doors from the Central Post Office, and thirty yards from the Guildhall and tramway lines. Mr. Cleaver issues at intervals "Miscellaneous and Standard Book Catalogues," great care being paid to the cleanliness and state of books. Mr. Fred. W. Goad is to be found at 2-3, Bath Street. Mr. Goad is the youngest of the booksellers of Bath; quick-brained, full of ideas and originality, and brimming over with enterprise, with unquestionably a fine future before him; and it is to Mr Goad's suggestion and efforts that the frontispiece to this Part has been obtainable.

Mr. Goad's specialities are Americana, Africana, India and the East, and Fine Bindings; his stock of clean second-hand books is one of the largest in the West of England; and he is anxious to open up business relations all over the world. If any stranger should intend to visit Bath, and will write to Mr. Goad in advance, he will secure rooms, and will show them over the city.

Mr. George Gregory's establishment is at 5, Argyle Street, at the entrance to the celebrated Pulteney Street, one of the finest streets of private houses in the kingdom, and when one knows the commanding position he holds in English provincial bookselling, and has learnt from his own lips something of his history, you realise that his personality is one of unusual interest. Mr. Gregory's father started in business at Bath as a bookbinder in 1845. He was evidently a man of character, possessing the courage of his opinions, was a strong Radical, and played an active part in politics, while at one time he occupied the post of Clerk of the Markets, and took great interest in local literary matters. As a hobby he compiled a history of the Beckford Family, including especially that famous William Beckford whose library formed part of the Hamilton Palace collection, and realised, when sold, such fabulous prices. He retired from business in 1871, and died in 1898, and after his death his children presented a series of grangerized books relating to Bath to the Bath Free Reference Library. In 1871 Mr. George Gregory purchased the business from his father, having previously served an apprenticeship to bookbinding with him. The address then was 9, Bath Street. Being fond of books, and finding it impossible to give the necessary attention both to binding and to bookselling, in 1884 he removed to Argyle Street, as he realised the importance of being in a prominent thoroughfare in the best part of the city. From small beginnings Mr. Gregory gradually built up his present business. As stock increased he added room after room to accommodate it, and a few years ago acquired premises at the rear, which he joined with a glass-covered way, and thus obtained seven extra rooms; and two years ago he still further extended his premises by adding a large warehouse, measuring 60 feet by 18, with a similar room below, so that he is now enabled to deal in libraries of almost any magnitude. The establishment has now twenty large, well-lighted rooms devoted to stock, classified under various subjects, i.e., Topography, Sport, Biography, Theology, French, German, Italian, Heraldry, Archæology, Mathematics, &c., besides choice books, sets of journals, Bath and Somerset books, and general English literature. One entire room is devoted to Punch. Here some twenty to thirty thousand numbers are kept tied up in volume besides hundreds of bound volumes, and from this store anything, from a single number to a complete set, can usually be supplied. Mr. Gregory is, we believe, the only provincial bookseller who holds a Royal Warrant of appointment as Bookseller in Ordinary to Her Majesty Queen Alexandra. It is additionally interesting that a member of the second hand book trade as distinct from new booksellers is so honoured. The honour was conferred in 1901, and the document arrests attention as one enters the chief book saloon next to the front shop. An indefatigable worker, and a very early riser from youth, Mr Gregory invariably begins the day, all the year round, with a plunge into the cold swimming bath, followed by an hour or two's work before breakfast; proof in itself of an iron constitution. In addition to the business side of his life he takes great interest in the Catholic movement in the Church of England; is honorary secretary to the Bath branch of the English Church Union; is sidesman at St. John's Church, and has acted as acolyte at that church for the past thirty-five years. It is a curious fact that the main building occupied by Mr. Gregory in Argyle Street has been a bookshop or Library ever since it was built by Thomas Baldwin in 1789, except for a short period before he took it over. Another coincidence is that the former occupiers' names all began with G—Gibbons, George, Griffiths, and Gregory. Mr. Gregory sums up the grand secret of success to the second-hand bookseller as being (a) Hard work and perseverance. (b) System and punctuality. (c) Attention to details, no matter how trifling; with uniform courtesy to enquirers, whether likely to prove customers or not. To this may be added that Mr. Gregory is a veritable Bath Chap, for he was born there in 1852, has lived there all his life, and plays his part as a citizen outside the sphere of his business affairs. An illustration of this occurred in September, last year, at the Crabbe Celebrations at Bath, when a bronze tablet, erected in the Royal Literary and Scientific Institution, to the memory of the poets George Crabbe, Thomas Moore, and William Lisle Bowles, was unveiled by Professor Réné Huchon, of the University of Nancy, France. It was to the initiative of Mr. Gregory that the inauguration was mainly due, and in connection with the ceremony there was an exhibition of Crabbe raviora. The Hon. H. M Sewall, representative of Bath in the State Legislature of Maine, U.S.A. was amongst those present. After the ceremony Mr. Gregory entertained the company at luncheon in theGuildhall, and at the head of the menu-card appeared three beautiful medallion portraits of the poets. Such actions are to be highly commended, for no man's life should be bounded by the four walls of his office, or his view of things tends to become narrowed and perverted, in the direction of self and money-getting. Another instance of Mr. Gregory's public spirit occurred in connection with a collection of original Irish Despatches which passed between Lord Nugent Temple, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and Home Secretary Townshend, in 1782-83. They form an important hiatus in documents in the Public Record Office, and, having fallen into Mr. Gregory's hands in the course of business, he presented them to the Office in May last. The Royal Librarian at Windsor Castle says:—"I only wish that other people were as public-spirited as yourself in respect of national documents. I hope you will allow me to say that your decision to restore these documents to the Public Record Office does you great honour." 'And so say all of us,' as the old song has it. An example of enterprise—which, if it proved profitable is none the less to be commended, since the possibility of loss any how attended it—was Mr. Gregory's publication of Mr. Mowbray Green's handsome volume The Eighteenth Century Architecture of Bath. This work contains upwards of 200 illustrations of the superb examples of Renaissance Architecture remaining in and around the city, together with reproductions of original portraits, old maps, and rare playbills connected with such celebrities as Mrs. Siddons, J. P. Kemble, and George Frederick Cooke. A large number of the buildings depicted possess historic associations, and appeal to a far wider clientèle than merely the residents of Bath. Mr Gregory's catalogues are such as one might expect from a man possessing such qualities as the foregoing details indicate. They are instinct with enterprise, and such as any London dealer of the first class might be proud to produce One now before me is a quarto, printed throughout on plate paper in order that the 43 block facsimiles of engraved titles and examples of early printing which it contains may have full justice done to them. With the statement that Mr. Gregory's stock, placed in one row, would require a shelf 6½ miles long to accommodate it I must pass on to Messrs. B. & J. F. Meehan

The address of Messrs. Meehan is 32, Gay Street This firm was founded by Mr Bartholomew Meehan, who died at Bath on November 10, 1892, in his seventy sixth year. The firm has since been carried on by his son, Mr. John Francis Meehan as sole proprietor. Mr. Meehan the elder had been born within sound of the "Shandon Bells" in July 1816, and early evinced a migratory disposition. Unsettled even at school, he was soon at war with those about him, not excepting Father Mathew, the great apostle of temperance, who on more than one occasion gave him personal chastisement for some error or supposed error of conduct In 1839 he left Cork for Liverpool and for a number of years did business in old books with varying fortune, but in all cases earning for himself, through his quick native art, fund of anecdote, and natural buoyancy of spirit, a host of acquaintances, and not a few lasting friendships. His policy was, as he expressed it in after years, 'never to make an enemy, as you may never know when you may want a friend.' Full of animal spirits, during his life at Liverpool he participated in many practical jokes, which formed endless material for racy anecdotes in his later and quieter days.

After leaving Liverpool, he settled for a time in Swansea, where in St. Mary's Street he did a fair trade, though a circulating library which he started resulted in a serious financial loss. In those days customers were not so particular about "uncut edges," and he often related how for days and weeks he was engaged in the task of cutting the edges of untrimmed and untidy-looking books with a well-sharpened knife

Married at Swansea about 1853 he soon after migrated to Merthyr. The restless spirit being ever with him, he removed in succession to Penzance, Plymouth, and Portsmouth. Some of his happiest time had been spent at the latter place, where one of his great pleasures was deep-sea fishing, at which he was an apt sportsman. An anecdote is told of his readiness of wit. On one of these excursions he was in a small punt, and by some means fell into the water. When he had got back into the boat a sailor from a neighbouring steamer called "Hi! hi! old man, you were nearly gone that time," to which he replied "No, no, not the slightest danger." "How's that?" asked the sailor. "I'm a Cork man," was the answer

About 1867 he settled in Bath, commencing business in York Street, afterwards removing to 11, Pulteney Bridge, where he frequently came in friendly and business contact with such notable literary personages as Bulwer Lytton, John Henry Shorthouse, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Hall, Bishop Thirlwall, and many others.

Bishop Thirlwall died at Bath, and on his death his library was dispersed at a six days' sale in Pulteney Street. Fairly heavy purchases were made at the sale, but the shrewd old gentleman, with perhaps the hope of a lucky find, also purchased privately the late bishop's store of waste paper. This in weight amounted to half a cwt., and at the rate of 15s. per cwt. 7s. 6d. was paid for the same. Within a few weeks 1,300 autograph letters from this lot were sold for £50 to Canon Perowne, who was then writing the life and editing the correspondence of the late bishop

The Bath business, with the active assistance of his son, Mr J. F. Meehan, soon developed to such an extent that in 1883 much larger premises were taken in Gay Street, where the business has since been carried on. For a number of years the father carried on (concurrently with the business managed by his son in Bath) a healthy trade in South Wales, first in Swansea (renewing his old acquaintanceships), and afterwards and finally at Pentre, Rhondda, where he was elected to prominent positions on the Local Board and Chamber of Commerce In all cases he won for himself—with his never failing flow of humour and kindliness of heart—respect and good-fellowship.

Always active in mind and body, want of care on his part, in travelling in an open conveyance on a cold foggy night, was supposed to have hastened his end

The testimonies to his ability and geniality were numerous and most sympathetic

Possessed of a great wit, and a ready and keen sense of humour, quick perception, and the kindly and courteous manner of the old school, he was a representative of a departing order of things that was widely missed.

Respecting the present representative of the firm, Mr. J. F. Meehan, it has been said of him that he is fulfilling the best traditions of his calling as a bookseller. For although actively engaged in maintaining the reputation of the firm as one of the most reliable in the West of England for supplying the needs of the English, Colonial, American, or Foreign Collector, Mr Meehan also finds time to devote himself to the study of the highly interesting historical associations of the district in which he happens to be so happily placed. In this latter respect he has made himself an invaluable historian of Bath, and as such has produced several publications of standard value, notably in 1901 when he published "The Famous Houses of Bath and District," a work now out of print, and difficult to obtain His last important venture was a companion work to the above and entitled "More Famous Houses of Bath and District." To this work, only recently published, the popular novelist Mr. Egerton Castle wrote a delightful introduction Mr. Meehan's knowledge of the history of Bath obtains him the friendship and visits of distinguished and interesting personages from all parts of the world. Gifted with quick wit, a genial manner, and an obliging interest in all callers or correspondents, whether as customers or otherwise, Mr. Meehan's acquaintances and friends at home and abroad now number many hundreds. It seems quite natural to state that the speciality of the present firm is the literature that illustrates the history of Bath and district. Mr. Meehan himself is possessed of a choice private collection of Bath books, pamphlets, views, portraits, caricatures, autograph letters, play bills, and other valuable local matter. With such possessions, and with the local knowledge he has acquired, Mr. Meehan has become an indispensable local personage of reference to all seeking information on any point of the past history of Bath, whether historical, topographical, or genealogical. Besides their stock of local literature the firm deals largely in scarce and valuable books of general interest, first editions and the best editions of standard authors. As such they have a big patronage from American and Continental Collectors.

It may be of interest, from a genealogical point of view, to say that the practically uncommon name of Meehan has a Milesian origin, and is a corruption of the early designation of the family—Maothan, Maothan the founder of the family, was a descendant of Ir, one of the two sons of Milesius, King of Spain, who, descending upon Ireland, ultimately divided that country between them, and reigned as kings over the two halves. The name Maothan became corrupted to O'Meehan, the prefix O' being used in Ireland in cases where there had been a kingly origin. For the last few hundred years—such periods count as a small matter when considering the history of the Milesians—the name has been spelt as now represented, Meehan. The O'Meehan's, or Meehans, had for several hundred years been settled at Ballaghmeehan, in County Leitrim, and here they were possessed, for four or five hundred years, of a silver casket containing the gospel of St. Molaise of Devenish. The casket, a magnificent specimen of early Irish silver workmanship, is now preserved in the museum of the Royal Irish Academy, Dublin. It was obtained in 1859 from the hereditary keepership of the then oldest representative of the family. Mr. J. F. Meehan is possessed of a wonderful amount of interesting historical and legendary matter in association with this casket and St. Molaise.

Here we end our visits to second-hand booksellers of Bath, but, by way of appendix, Mr George Bayntun, of 42, Walcot Street, must be included Mr. Bayntun's bookbinding works were established so recently as 1894, but as he has brought intelligence into play as well as high-class workmanship his career has once more illustrated the saying that "nothing succeeds like success." Not only does he produce the regulation bindings but, also, bindings in embossed hide, transparent vellum, &c.; he repairs old and valuable books, inlays extra-illustrated books, paints pictures on fore-edges, removes stains of every kind, and prepares illuminated albums. Mr Bayntun prides himself on giving good reliable work at a moderate price, and has many clients among the best book dealers in England, America, France, and Germany, who use his bindings for stock work; while special attention is given to the requirements of second-hand booksellers. He also keeps a stock of library editions of such authors as Thackeray, Dickens, Scott and Ainsworth, and poets in various bindings, so that he is in a sense, a bookseller as well as a bookbinder. In Mr. Bayntun's own words, "Many firms just state the amount they wish to spend on each work, and as we have some knowledge of the commercial value of books, we are able to give our customers just the right thing to sell their stock."

And so our tour of this historic city comes to an end. If that which I have attempted to indicate of the exceeding interest the town possesses should induce any subscriber to follow my example I do not think he would ever regret that he had taken the advice to Go to Bath.

NOTE.—If the foregoing article should be considered of interest or of value to subscribers a series of similar articles will be published upon all the chief centres of bookselling in Great Britain and Ireland.

COLLOQUIALISMS

In consequence of pressure upon space, notices of Catalogues are unavoidably postponed till Part 4, to be issued one month hence.

* * *

I cannot too strongly insist upon the desirability of foreign subscribers who order through agents writing to me at the same time, duplicating the order. Cases constantly occur of orders coming for vol. 2 only. I know that vol. 3 is wanted also and the first part of it is sent when published. It is then returned because no formal order to continue has been received by the agent. In one case I insisted on the succeeding parts being sent, and in due course the money came.

* * *

Any subscriber receiving orders from Arthur Powell, 9, Percy Street, Swansea, should communicate with me.

* * *

Subscribers should be very wary at present if they are offered by a private individual —not an Englishman—any autographs of George Washington or Benjamin Franklin, or rare portraits of Washington and others. Forgeries of these are being foisted on English booksellers. The name of the individual in question is known to me, as, also, the details of his career on 'the other side.'

* * *

The Tablet says, 'Of all hobbies perhaps the hobby of book-collecting is the one that yields the largest satisfaction in the present, and—if it ever has to be put on the market—the largest commercial return in the future.' Not a bad quotation for a catalogue-cover.

Subscribers to whom money is owing by d'Ambra of Naples must regard it as lost. Through the intervention of the British Consul d'Ambra and his brother are now in prison, so their career of fraud is checked. D'Ambra traded under various aliases but one—Aldo Manuzio—was only fit for comic opera, and should have aroused suspicion at once. It was if any English bookseller traded as 'Mr William Caxton.'

The destruction of San Francisco possesses bibliographical interest since, according to one journal, 'one of the irreparable losses is that of the Sutro Library of rare books. The works included a complete set of the Shakespearian folios, the first, second, third and fourth. The second folio was slightly scorched during the great fire of London. Included also was a nearly full set of folios of Ben Jonson. The Shakespeare collection included the rent-roll of Shottery Meadow, and there was a Prayer-Book and Hymnal given to Charles II. when he re entered London.' Ten years ago I knew San Francisco well, and can fully realise the gravity of the disaster.

After a long spell of work let me recommend the occasional knocking off of a nonsense-verse or two, as a brain recuperator. 'Tis the most excellent medicine, and you return to your labours much invigorated. This kind of thing I mean :—

Here sit I at my desk through length'ning days,
With door and window gaping to the breeze,
While birds inspect my bibliographic lays—(Confound it! That's a sneeze!
In spring the weather's clerk is aye a knave!)
But list! The postman's knock, some doors afar!
He comes! He brings, by Jove! what most I crave,— Subscribing bibliopoles for B.A.R.

* * *

Then you go back to business, only to have the conceit taken out of you by finding that there are other great poets in the world as well as yourself. For this is what the post has brought : in an anonymous hand too :—

Of what is the old man thinking
As he sits in his new arm-chair :
Subscribers the meanwhile winking
As they see that he's quite "all there," ?
He is thinking of various things, I ween,
Of the days when they thought him a fool ;
Ere a glimpse of that marvel of marvels was seen—
The bibliographical tool!

Strange to say there are some—though but few—
Who decline to pay less for much more,
And reject what is better, if new,
Than the love that has wooed them of yore.
But, no matter! A good time will come ;
E'en hotheads some day will be cool ;—
And the old man does nothing but hum
O'er the bibliographical tool.

And he thinks that Life's tragedy grey
Should relief find in quip, crank, and pun,
So if e'er he should chip you don't say
That it's malice. It is'nt! It's fun!
At the knocks of the world never cry,
Life's but a preparat'ry school,
Like the raven of Boz you should never say die,
But grind on at your bread-and-cheese tool.

The author adds that within a few hours of composing this masterpiece he read in the Life of Tennyson (vol. 1. p. 171), an extract from a letter of the poet, written in 1839, in which Tennyson says, All life is a school, a preparation, a purpose, and he supposes he will now be charged with plagiarism—which he vehemently denies. The music to which the chef d'œuvre can be sung will be found in one of the Lydia Thompson burlesques of thirty years ago. P.S. The postmark of the envelope was Hanwell, but of course there are no booksellers there, and I am at a complete loss as to the identity of the writer.

A subscriber calls for the publication of the names of the twenty-four booksellers referred to in Part 2, "so that I may refrain from dealing with such mean persons in future," while another refers to them as the twenty-four "blackbirds." I shall do this sooner or later, but am giving them rope enough, and, besides, I am extremely busy with more important affairs.

* * *

Unpaid subscriptions now total £153 9s. 4d. The laggards are in distinct contrast with such a subscriber, for instance, as Mr. George Webb, of Dublin, who sends his subscription a month in advance of publication. Mr. Webb may be sure that if ever an opportunity to serve him should occur it will not be overlooked.

DR. RICHARD GARNETT, C.B.

[Born at Lichfield, Feb. 27, 1835, Eldest son of the Rev. Richard Garnett. Assistant Keeper of Printed Books, British Museum. Entered the Library of the British Museum, 1851; Entrusted to arrange the recent acquisitions to the Library, 1857; Married Olivia Narney, daughter of Edward Singleton, Esq., 1863. Appointed Superintendent of the Reading Room, 1875. Edited the Printed Catalogue of the British Museum Library, 1880-1889; Received the degree of LL.D. from the University of Edinburgh, 1883; Appointed Keeper of the Printed Books in the British Museum, 1884. Made a C.B., 1895; Retired from the British Museum, 1899. Appointed a Trustee of the National Portrait Gallery, 1905; Died at Hampstead, April 13, 1906. Dr. Garnett was an Honorary Member of the American Philosophical Society of Philadelphia, the Massachusetts Historical Society, the Società Bibliographica Italiana, and of the Dante Society; and has been President of the Library Association; of the Bibliographical Society, of the Modern Languages Association, and of the Hampstead Antiquarian Society. The following is believed to be a correct list of his more important publications:—

'Primula', a volume of poems, (anonymously), 1858, republished in 1859, with extensive additions, under the title of 'Io in Egypt and other Poems'; Poems translated from the German, 1862; 'Relics of Shelley' (Fragments in Verse and Prose discovered among Shelley's MSS. since incorporated into the standard editions of the poet's writings), 1862; Monthly Digest of Contemporary German Literature (for The Saturday Review), 1864-82; 'Idylls and Epigrams chiefly from the Greek Anthology', 1869 (republished under the title of 'A Chaplet from the Greek Anthology', 1892), 'The Soul and the Stars', (article under the anagram of A. G. Trent, in The University Magazine, March, 1880, since republished); 'Life of Thomas Carlyle', 1887; 'Survey of Victorian Literature'. (in T. H. Ward's 'Reign of Queen Victoria'), 1887; 'Life of Emerson', 1888; 'Twilight of the Gods', 1888, (two new and augmented editions were published in 1903); 'Life of Milton', 1890; 'Iphigenia in Delphi, a Tragedy', 1890. 'Poems', 1893; 'The Age of Dryden', 1895; 'Life of William Blake, Painter and Poet', (Portfolio Monograph), 1895; 'Sonnets translated from Dante, Petrarch and Camoens' 1896; 'Richmond-on-the-Thames, (Portfolio Monograph), 1896; 'A Short History of Italian Literature', 1898; 'Edward Gibbon Wakefield, a Biography', 1898. Essays in Librianship and Bibliography', 1899; Essays of an Ex-Librarian', 1901. 'The Queen and other Poems', 1902; 'William Shakespeare, Pedagogue and Poacher', 1904. 'English Literature, an Illustrated Record, (with Edmund Gosse), 1904. 'De Flagello Myrteo', 1905. Dr. Garnett also edited and prefaced many books, wrote several pamphlets, (now sought for and scarce), contributed extensively to periodical literature, and wrote numerous articles in the 'Encyclopædia Britannica' and the 'Dictionary of National Biography', while at the date of his death he was engaged upon a Life of William Johnson Fox, announced for publication during the present year by Smith, Elder & Co.]

I had originally meant to attempt a Memoir of Dr. Garnett, but the above mere summary of the main incidents of his career and list of books written by him during what to most men would be hours of leisure show that even a brief one cannot be got within the limits of this publication. For nearly fifty years Dr. Garnett was a part of the British Museum, and only when a history of that splendid institution come to be written can his extraordinary activity and devotion as a Public Servant be made known. The Department of Printed Books is certainly one of the glories of the British Empire; with it must indissolubly be connected the name of Richard Garnett. It has been said that the printed catalogue is his greatest work but I believe that were it possible to enumerate his acts of kindness to students they would be found to out number its pages, as they are. So to me, his greatest work was his daily life in the Museum, his charming relations with the British Public. A stranger expected to find an official and instead found the kindest of friends. Personal experiences are always interesting, so let me recall my first interview with Dr. Garnett. It was in 1897, when I had published a book some part of which was in special state. As has happened before to publishers I had got into a rebellious frame of mind from the fact that the Copyright Act requires the delivery to different Institutions of five copies of the best state of any book, carrying a heavy tax when such state is very limited and very costly. Well, I sent a copy of the cheaper issue to the Museum and refused, point-blank, to deliver one of the [illegible] de luxe. I don't know what the British Museum could have done, in its wrath, had it so chosen; whether it could have haled me off to gaol or not, and have kept me there [illegible]

I came to a better state of mind; but what did happen was the arrival of a courteous note from Dr. Garnett, suggesting that I should call upon him. I did call, at once, and the resulting half hour's interview at the Museum left upon my mind an indelible impression of a unique personality, of a man of years and position who was as kind-hearted as a good woman should be; who was great in his qualities, and learned and clever; yet who hid the strong hand beneath the silk glove, and was withal as shy almost as any schoolgirl. I surrendered at discretion, left a copy of my best issue in his hands, and came away feeling that I had lost my book but had gained a friend. After that Dr. Garnett would occasionally bring me some special book—his copy of the first edition of The Germ, and his own monograph on William Blake—for instance, to be bound by the women in an industry the story of which remains to be told in fitting time. When the workshops were established at Hampstead they were within a short distance of Dr. Garnett's house, and, passing the door every time he went to town, he would often drop in to see the binding in progress, or would call to chat with my wife upon work upon which she was engaged. She remembers him telling her how Queen Victoria entrusted General Gordon's bible (brought back from Khartoum) to him for repair, and stating that he had executed the work in his own room so that the precious volume should not leave his possession. Upon another occasion he saw and was much interested in a rare proof engraving of Queen Victoria's coronation, from the picture by E. T. Parris, which my wife was colouring under the superintendence of the artist's daughter. The engraving, when finished, was purchased by the King for the Royal Collection, and Dr. Garnett never afterwards failed to ask if my wife was doing any more work on historical subjects. Yet another time Dr. Garnett saw and was much interested in the album which the women-birders were commissioned to make for the Princess of Wales to take on the voyage to Australia, the Cape, and Canada, and he remarked that even a princess might consider herself fortunate to have so much thought given to emblematic detail. I mention these occurrences to show Dr. Garnett's tact and kindness. He was not very specially interested in binding, I believe, but it had its place in his mind. He saw that my wife was deeply interested in her work, and he chatted to her about what appealed to her, as if he had been engaged in binding books all his life. It is well known that he would take an interest in any subject if by doing so he thought he could be of use to a student. Thus in the Reading Room some one might tell him that he was going to write a life of Hannibal or of Paul de Kock. Dr. Garnett perhaps would say little, perhaps much, at the moment. But at the next meeting he would be almost sure to impart some special piece of information, and often by the time the book was written he would have indicated the materials for a good deal of the contents. His marvellous memory enabled him to make a mental note of everyone's requirements, and he seemed to be able to acquire knowledge without the tiresome process of hunting it down. If Dr Garnett took enormous pleasure in facilitating the work of his "Readers" and improving the complicated machinery of his Department, he took scarcely less in adding to its treasures. For many years it was his delightful duty to report to the Trustees in favour of the purchase of rare books. He was a cool-headed man, but not infrequently he must have known what real excitement is. Many of my readers have seen him at Sotheby's or Puttick's on the eve of a great sale. One of the most interesting pieces of bibliography ever compiled is entitled "Three Hundred Notable Books added to the Library of the British Museum under the Keepership of Richard Garnett" (privately printed for the Editors and Subscribers, by Constable, in March, 1899). After going through it one arrives at at least some idea of what he did in securing treasures for Great Russell Street.

Of course such a man bought some books for himself and more to give away. Some of us have seen him at Denny's in the Strand, or at Dobell's in Charing Cross Road, but no doubt his large private library grew more through gifts from authors and friends than from purchasing. He was for many years an intimate friend of Lady Shelley, he is said to have owned some Shelley MSS. and he must certainly have had a fine collection of Shelley literature and scarce books in nearly all departments of letters, for his interests were very wide. I should guess that in particular he had everything written by his friends Coventry Patmore and George Meredith, whose early works he reviewed for the Examiner. But my theme is inexhaustible. It is pleasant to know that Dr. Garnett was most happy in his home-life. Mrs. Garnett, who often looked in upon us, must have been an ideal wife. Bright and witty, she, too, was fond of books, and had her own particular collection. Their children have inherited their tastes, and the names of three of them appear as authors or editors in the British Museum Catalogue.

When Mrs Garnett's death came I received a letter from Dr. Garnett on the subject which I shall treasure as a memento of a remarkable personality. Of late he seemed to age somewhat rapidly. Yet the fatal illness came quite unexpectedly. The nurse who tended him during the week which was his last on earth told us that she never had so gentle, so considerate a patient; that his one complaint was that the family and she were doing more than they should; that he was giving them too much trouble that they were getting no rest. All the week through only smiles and thanks came from his lips. Simplicity, I take it, was the main feature of his character: it is often so with great minds.

The following sonnet, written by Dr. Garnett, is comparatively little known, and will be of interest to all "book-men."

AN OLD PERUVIAN BOOK

Printed at a Mission Station in the Andes, 1612.
Bought by the British Museum

Screened in the shadows Cordilleras fling,
Where straining breast scarce breathes, and straining eye
Sees naught 'twixt lifted sight and silent sky
Save the huge Condor hung on heavy wing:—
Small skill, great love, there made me, light to bring
Where, sunk beneath the mountain far as I
Had birth aloft, the Indian's misery
Plied toil unblest for Europe's profiting.
The silver that his labour sunward drew
Now buys me, haply, in this foreign mart
Where Love and Skill and Labour bartered are,
And it and I have interchanged our part:
Homeward it journeys to remote Peru
Leaving me here beneath the Northern Star.

Note:—The portrait of Dr. Garnett which accompanies this part was taken shortly after he received his C.B. in 1895, and the order is seen on his breast. The portrait, I think, has never before been published: it possesses special interest in that it presents Dr Garnett in the prime of his life, before evidence of age appeared. It was originally taken by Messrs. Dickinson of New Bond Street, with whom I have arranged for its reproduction here. It should not go unchronicled in these pages that since Dr Garnett's death a general chorus of appreciation of his unvarying goodness and kindness, to all alike, as well as of the great value of his writings, has gone up from the press of many countries, finding keen expression in England from the pens of such writers and associates as A. W. Pollard, Sir F. T. Marzials, Ford Madox Hueffer, Beatrice Harraden, Agnes A. Adams, and Alice Zimmern. By many critics Dr. Garnett's remarkable volume of stories "The Twilight of the Gods" is now ranked with the best work of the celebrated Anatole France. I believe that many of Dr. Garnett's stories were originally published in magazines before the great Frenchman began to write. Copies of the first edition of the "Twilight," published by Fisher Unwin, are now scarce; but the scarcest of Dr. Garnett's works is his first volume of poems—"Primula." Indeed I do not recollect a copy of it occurring for sale.

(The following article appeared in Lloyd's Weekly News, June 24, 1900, and the editor has very kindly given permission for it to be reproduced, and has lent the block. The article will doubtless cause many a subscriber to visit Wimborne at the first opportunity. Wimborne is 111 miles from London, and week-end return tickets cost 11s 0d. Mr Ryley, New and Second-hand Bookseller, The Square, might be visited at the same time.)

LINKS WITH THE PAST

AN ANCIENT PUBLIC LIBRARY

Public free libraries are of such modern development that it seems impossible at first thought, to find among their number one that could be regarded as linking the present with the past.

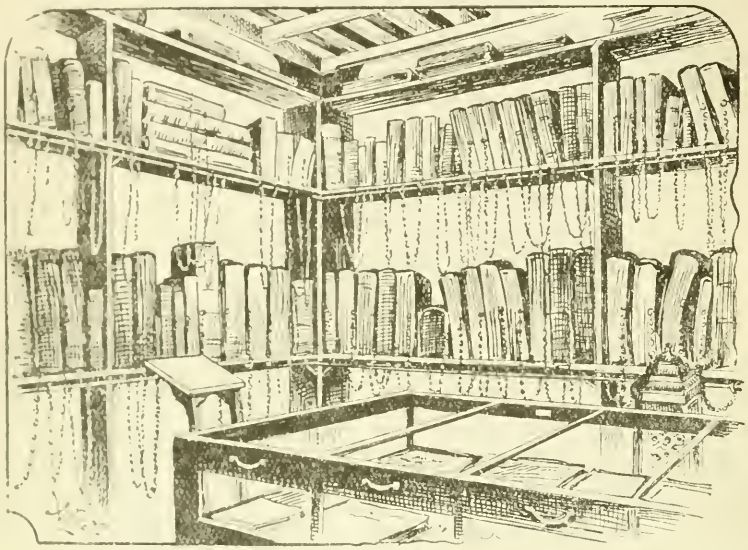

Yet there is such a library for all the world to see at Wimborne, in Dorset. It was founded as far back as 1686, and must, therefore, be one of the earliest instances of a free public library in existence in this country, if not actually the first.

Like nearly all the early sources of learning, the library is attached to a relig-establishment—the ancient Wimborne Minster, which itself dates from early in the twelfth century

For its foundation it was indebted to the generosity of William Stone, at one time Principal of New Inn Hall, Oxford. He presented most of the books that compose the library, at the same time laying down strict injunctions that they should be kept for the free use of the townsfolk of Wimborne

There are altogether some 243 volumes, and an interesting feature about them is that, with few exceptions, they are all firmly fastened to their shelves by means of long iron chains, which are attached to rods running along level with the shelf. The chains are just long enough to admit of the books being removed and placed on reading desks provided for the purpose.

The volumes are for the most part bulky, being bound in heavy leather boards that would seem to defy the ravages of time and wear for ever. From all appearances they have not experienced much usage—the demand for literature in the 17th century was not what it is now—and are in consequence in a splendid state of preservation.

In such a collection the visitor will naturally expect to find some particular treasures, and he will not be disappointed. In the glass case in the centre of the room is a 1343 manuscript, "Regimen Animarum," beautifully executed on vellum. Close by lies a copy of Burton's "Anatomy of Melancholy," side by side with a "Breeches" black letter Bible, dated 1595.

Perhaps the greatest treasure, however, is a copy of the first and only volume (in 1,300 folio pages) of Sir Walter Raleigh's "History of the World," which was never completed on account of its being suppressed. Unfortunately the book has had a hole burnt through over 100 of its pages, an act of vandalism which is said to have been caused by the negligence of Matthew Prior, who, by the way, is claimed by Wimborne as one of its sons, though there are not wanting those who put forward Winburn, in Middlesex, as more entitled to the distinction. The hole bears signs of skilful repair, and this also is accredited to Prior.

The library is a rather small, low room, with a fine oak ceiling, situated over the vestry of the Minster, from which it is reached by means of a narrow circular turret stair

COLLOQUIALISMS

The sole justification for the existence of a trade journal is that it [illegible] endeavouring to protect and advance the interests of its subscribers, and B.A.R. will ever be alert in that respect.

* * *

Subscribers who do not already send their catalogues to the following address should do so, viz., The Librarian (Herbert Putnam, Esq.), Library of Congress, Washington, D.C., U.S.A. The Librarian writes, We want your catalogue of antiquarian stock, as we deal in the open market, and are desirous of being in touch with all the larger second hand booksellers.

* * *

Catalogues should also be sent to Signor Leo S. Olschki, Lungarno Acciaioli, Florence, Italy. Mr. Olschki is not only a well-known bookseller, but he edits and publishes a monthly bibliographical magazine—La Bibliofilia—in which prominent catalogues are noticed, as in B.A.R.; and German booksellers are well represented. Catalogues cannot be too widely distributed, provided discretion is used, and you want to gather in customers from the whole world.

* * *

So many subscribers are negligent in paying their subscriptions that those who pay promptly should get the benefit which their credit earns by the fact. The following paid in advance for the entire volume for 1906:—

London: Parsons & Sons; R. H. Porter. Bath: G. Bayntun, F. W. Gread. Birmingham: W. Downing; E. Hector; H. E. Heynes; G. T. Juckes & Co., Lowe Bros. Brighton: Chas. Morgan. Cambridge: Macmillan & Bowes. Eastbourne: F. Bensley. Edinburgh: W. Dunlop. Hull: D. W. Edwards. Leeds: Jas. Miles; Jos. Milligan. Liverpool: S. Hales; J. Hastewell. Norwich: R. Levine. Portsmouth: W. H. Long. Preston: Allsup & Stanley. Brussels: Spineux & Co. Munich: J. Halle. New York: A. Swann.

The majority of subscribers of course pay for each part within a week of its receipt, but the total for unpaid subscriptions increases steadily, and is now £150, and it is such a nuisance and expense to try to collect that sum in amounts of 5s. 3d. that the terms will have to be raised to those who are not prompt in payment.

* * *

"Seale," or "Searle," alias "H. Marsden," the Hindoo, is about again, and has inconvenienced one subscriber considerably. He ordered certain books but, owing to the exposures in B.A.R. he did not get them without payment, and of course he did not pay. Fortunately the booksellers from whom my subscriber had obtained books for him were kind enough to take them back. One wonders what the fellow's real name is. What you all have to remember is that he is a black man, and let that put you on your guard at once.

* * *

I should much like to form an album of portraits of subscribers to B.A.R. It would be an interesting memorial of present-day booksellers, and could some day be bequeathed to the British Museum, or the Booksellers' Provident Association, or to that Second-hand Booksellers' Association which I still hope may come into existence. If therefore you will send me your photographs, (and state your ages), they shall be systematically arranged under towns, and be open to inspection. We live in an age of illustration and a photograph is almost, if not quite, as clear an indication of character as a letter.

* * *

A paragraph of mine in B.A.R., Vol. 3, Pt. 2 (p. xi) is upon the matter of punctuation. Since that was penned the Morning Post says 'Mr. Percy Fitzgerald thinks it remarkable that no reader of "Pickwick" has hitherto noticed the strangeness of the punctuation in that classical work,' etc. I may mention, in connexion with this matter, that it was I who first drew Mr. Fitzgerald's attention to the fact that the punctuation in Pickwick was absurd. He said he had never noticed it, so I pointed out instance upon instance, and he then said that attention should be drawn to the matter in his next book on Pickwick. It is a very curious fact that numbers of well-educated persons can neither punctuate nor spell. A great brain-doctor of world-wide fame once asked me if that was my experience, and I told him that large numbers of persons could never learn to spell. Visual deficiency is of course the cause. They cannot see the words while writing them. Some twenty years ago Punch had a picture on the subject, at the expense of a certain duchess, now dead.

It is one of the compensations of life to have pleasant memories of the dead. Sir Henry Irving has gone from us (Oct. 14, 1905). Upon more than one occasion I came into personal contact with him. Twenty years ago, when he was in the full flood of prosperity, he came to my place to look at a fine character-portrait in oils of some famous actor—J. P. Kemble, I think it was. Irving was accompanied by J. L. Toole, then a very dapper little man, looking as spick-and-span as if he had just stepped out of a bandbox. The price asked for the picture was fifty guineas. Toole said "Oh! I don't think much of it. I should say £40 was quite enough." I doubt if he knew much about art, and if I had asked £40 he would probably have said £30 was enough. "No," said Irving, "it's a very fine picture. Send it to the Garrick Club for me," and he paid the full amount. The painting was a gift to the Club, and hangs on its walls to this day. In 1896 also, (not then knowing that his affairs were going all agley, or I wouldn't have troubled him), I wrote, offering him a 'First Folio Shakespeare' for £500, and, harassed as he must have been at that time, he made leisure to write me a courteous letter instead of deputing the matter to a secretary. What a blessing it is that Nature sometimes turns out a born gentleman! As was well said of him on the day of his funeral, 'He took the kicks and halfpence of Fortune with a calm, unruffled mind, superior to either fate'; paraphrasing the lines from Hamlet :—

> A man that fortune's buffets and rewards
> Hast ta'en with equal thanks.

The following appeared in T.P.'s Weekly, July 27, 1906. Lowndes (p. 1509) gives the date of the first edition as 1672. A note should be made in Lowndes.

'The most valuable American-printed book, which has long been sought after, but of which no copy has hitherto been known to exist in recent times, has, true to prophecy, at last come to light. This is no less than the first printed collection of the laws of the colony of Massachusetts Bay, issued from the press of Matthew Day, at Cambridge, in 1648. After years of fruitless search by students and bibliographers a copy has now turned up in a small private library in England, and has been purchased by Dodd, Mead, & Co., of this city. The title of this book, beside which the famous "Bay Psalm Book" is, in point of rarity, a common volume, and in point of historical interest far inferior, is in full, as follows :—

> The | Book Of General | Lawes And Libertyes | Concerning The Inhabitants Of The Massachusets | Collected Out Of The Records Of The General Court | For The Several Years Wherein They were made | And Established | And now revised by the same Court and disposed into an Alphabetical Order | and published by the same Authoritie in the General Court | held at Boston the fourteenth of the | first month Anno | 1647. | VVhosoever therefore resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God, | and they that resist receive to themselves damnation. Romanes 13.2. | [Ornament] Cambridge. | Printed according to order of the General Court | 1648. | And are to be solde at the shop of Hezekiah Usher | in Boston |

No other "lost" book has been more zealously hunted for.'

Swindles.—A subscriber writes as follows on this subject :—'Booksellers as a rule seem to be very trusting men, and have a large amount of belief in the public. It is a pity they are so often "had." Why cannot we form some sort of Mutual Protection Association, so that we can warn each other of "doubtful" and "bad" cases?' I can only say, in reply to this, that I keep a register of such cases, and that my subscribers already practically constitute such an Association, and that I have never yet failed to obtain the desired information from any town in the kingdom; in one case saving a loss of £26. So subscribers may write to me, sending full details, with copy of accounts, sample of handwriting, &c., and I will do my best. Six stamps must be enclosed, to cover cost of postages, &c.

BOOK-AUCTION RECORDS

Where no sizes are given the books are 8vo et infra. Where no binding is stated it is understood to be the original cloth or paper covers, as published. The following is a key to the abbreviations :—

1st	=	first.	ills.	=	illustrations.
bnd.	=	bound.	L. G.	=	gothic letter.
B. L.	=	Black Letter.	L. P.	=	Large Paper.
ca.	=	circa (about).	lib.	=	library.
cf.	=	calf.	mor.	=	morocco.
cl.	=	cloth.	num.	=	numerous.
cold.	=	coloured.	N. Y.	=	New York.
dup.	=	duplicate.	ob.	=	oblong.
ed.	=	edited.	orig.	=	original.
Edinb.	=	Edinburgh.	plts.	=	plates.
edn.	=	edition.	port.	=	portrait.

G. L.	=	Gothic Letter.	v. y.	=	various years.
hf.	=	half.	vell.	=	vellum.
			w. a. f.	=	sold with all faults.

The right-hand column of each page gives the names of the auctioneers, and the date of the sale, as follows :—

C.	= Christie, Manson, & Woods.	P.	= Puttick & Simpson.
H.	= Hodgson & Co.	S.	= Sotheby, Wilkinson & Hodge.
Ha	= Hampton & Sons.	St.	= Stevens.

S. Dec. 4 therefore represents Sotheby's Dec. 4. 1905, while any month from January to September refers, of course, to the year 1906.

The spelling of B. A. R. is always that of the original titles, and apparent errors are not misprints. The same applies to accents in foreign languages of which the type does not invariably permit; and, also, to old and erroneous punctuation.

The following were sold by Messrs. Knight, Frank, & Rutley, Conduit St., London, on August 23, 1905, after the close of the London book-auction season. The names of the purchasers were not obtainable from the auctioneers :—

Boke of Barthrā (Bertram) Priest, intreatinge of thee bodye and bloude of Christe, wrytten to greate Charles the Emperoure, and set forth VII C (700) yeares a goo, and Imprinted An. dni, M D.XLIX (1549) b. l., imprinted at London in Saynct Andrewes Paryshe In the Waredrop, by Thomas Raynalde (1549)—Calvin (J.) A Faythful and moste Godly treatyse concernynge the most sacred sacrament of the blessed body and bloude of our saviour Christ Set forthe by Myles Coverdale, b. l., printed abroad (s. d. n. a.)—Here Begynneth a Booke, called the faule of the Romysche churche, b. l., secretly printed in England (n. p. n. ord.) The First Examinacion of the worthy servaunt of god, Maisters (Mistress) Anne Askewe, the yōger doughter of Syr William Askewe knyght of Lyncolne shyre: lately martyred in Smithfield, by the Romyshe Popes upholders. The latter Examinacion, of the worthy servaunt of God, masters (mistress) Anne Askewe. The Balladꝭ whych Anne Askewe made and sange, whan she was in Newgate—The Sum of the Actes and decrees made by diverse bisshops of rome. (Colophon) Translated out of Latyn into Englysh. And Imprinted by Thomas gybson. In 1 volume, black mor., g. e., 1549, etc Leach, £20 10s S. Dec. 6

* From the Heber Library, a most rare collection of "the Boke of Barthā" (The Book of Bertram). There is no copy of the edition of 1549 in the British Museum but only that of 1624. The little volume (24 ll. of text including title) was evidently very popular, as no less than six editions are recorded by Lowndes up to 1624. The 1623 edition was also reprinted with additions in 1686. The second "Treatise" of 44 ll. including the title-page, by John Calvin was printed abroad, and is the excessively rare Editio Princeps, before Coverdale's name was introduced on the title-page. Lowndes was unable to refer to the sale of a copy. The portion of Miles Coverdale commences on D 6 (verso). The "Faule of the Romyshe Churche" comprises A—C in eights, with the original blank leaf C. 8. Only very few copies are known. This little volume was printed secretly in England after the assumption by Henry VIII. of the title of Head of the Church. The Askew tract: the "fyrst" and "latter" "examinacion" is not only the original and professedly personal account by Anne Askew of her trials on account of her religious opinions, but is a distinct and apparently earlier impression than that in the Huth Library, which is said to be unknown to bibliographers. At the end we have "The Ballade, wych Anne Askewe made and sange, when she was in Newgate," one of the most interesting productions of this particular kind in the English language. Finally, of the little tract "Sum of the Actes," etc., the only other copies known are in the British Museum and at the Lambeth Palace Library.

Fox (George), John Stubs, and Benjamin Furley. Battle-Door for Teachers and Professors to learn Singular and Plural; You to Many, and Thou to One: Singular One, Thou; Plural Many, You. (With examples of the Singular and Plural in English Latine Welch Cornish Irish East Indian and other tongues), 1660—Fox (G.) Great Ministery of the great whore unfolded and Antichrist's Kingdom revea'ed unto destruction, 1659, in 1 v., orig. cf., fo Maggs, £11 S. Dec. 7

* This copy of the Battle-Door contains the full collation of 57 sheets on 114 leaves as given by Hazlitt and Smith, and agrees with the copy in the British Museum. It includes the first leaf of Errata but not the slip issued subsequently "more errors espied since," rarely found. On the verso of the last leaf is pasted a very rare additional slip, signed G. F., relating to the Pope's pride in using 'You to one.' This is evidently the original impression, but the one in the Grenville copy is apparently a reprint. Inserted before the title-page of the Battle-Door is a printed copy of a letter from Stubs to "Deare George Fox" written presumably in 1660 or 1661, relating to the publication of the book, and in which he mentions that it contains 57 sheets. This letter was printed in 1842 from the original MS.

* Melancthon studied medicine from an early period of his life. In the third volume of the "Corpus Reformatorum" (page 490) we find a preface to the works of Galen, written by Melancthon in 1558. Many of the MS. notes and underlinings are the same as those in the collected edition of his works. Some of the notes are in red ink, and the greater portion of them have been written with considerable care. Some of these annotations are reproduced by Sotheby in his monograph on Melancthon.

* Belonged apparently to Sir Henry Sidney and his wife Mary, daughter of John Dudley, Earl of Warwick, as attested by verses in MS. at end of "The Reign of Edward IV.," and at end of "King Henry VII." Also, many MS. notes in another hand, believed to be that of their daughter Mary, Countess of Pembroke, who was the mother of William Herbert. The copy is the first issue, having at the end Grafton's colophon with the date of 1548; other owners of the book have been John Batty, Merchant Tailor, and John Fourney, who owned it in 1623. The portion of Henry VIII. lacks pp 111-112, but has leaf 113 in duplicate, and some ll. are cropped.

Pearson, £10 S. Dec. 9
* An excessively rare Elizabethan Spelling Book. Possibly the earliest that has been preserved. It consists of 2 leaves only. It has neither regular title, place, nor printer's name, and there are no signatures, the only catchword being at the foot of page 2. Accounts of the Elizabethan Spelling Books will be found in Halliwell's fo. edn. of Shakespeare.

* Farmer's (the Shakespearean Commentator's) copy, and evidently prepared by him for an enlarged, revised edn. (never published). Nearly every one of the 260 pp. is covered with additions and corrections in his autograph; the division devoted to Shakespeare is particularly important, as Farmer has noted against each play his opinion of the date of its composition; also information concerning Field and Shakespeare, Measure for Measure, Much Ado about Nothing, etc

* From the Library of Lord Nelson, to whom it was presented by the Author. A long inscription and a letter addressed to Nelson, in the autograph of Sir R. Worsley, are in the volumes. Nelson gave them to Lady Hamilton, and they were sold in her sale in 1809 for 50 guineas. Only 100 copies were printed. The present example has the rare leaf printed on vellum, which was issued with but two or three copies.

* Privately printed by Card. Pole, who distributed only a few copies as presents to the Pope and Cardinals. Pole promised Henry VIII not to distribute the work, and the King tried in vain to obtain a copy from the Cardinal. On obtaining one Henry ordered Cranmer and the other bishops to draw up an answer. Latimer preached against the work, and Henry tried to inveigle the Cardinal into England, offered 50,000 crowns for his head, and caused his brother to be arrested and executed.

—— Another Edn., with autograph, n. d. Cotes, £14

Wills (W. G.) Charles I., with autograph, n. d. Gladstone, £21

Phillips (Watts) The Dead Heart, with autograph, 1889 Cotes, £13 10s

Merivale (Herman) Ravenswood, with autograph, n. d. Barton, £13

—— Mr. William Shakespear's Comedies, Histories, and Tragedies, the third Impression, blank margins of port. mended, fragment of two letters restored in the verses below, title, dedication, and last leaf in facs., and a few leaves mended, and having some words restored, otherwise sound, clean, and good copy, in cf., bnd. about 100 years ago (measuring 12½ by 8½ ins.) in red levant mor. case, fo., 1664 Edwards, £48 10s S. Dec. 8

* Apart from the defects mentioned, a very good copy, with the genuine portrait and verses.

—— Comedies, Histories, and Tragedies, 4th Edn., port. after Droeshout with verses beneath (slightly stained), slight rust hole injuring a letter in Pericles, pp. 203-4, leaf in the same, pp. 209-10 spoilt, measuring 14¾ by 8¼ in., 1685 Edwards, £60 S. Dec. 9

* An unusually sound and genuine copy; some rough edges.

—— Comedies, Histories, and Tragedies, the fourth Edn., port., fine impression, with Verses, contemporary cf., enclosed in a blue levant case, from the Lambarde Library, fo., 1685 Edwards, £119 S. Dec. 8

* An unusually fine and crisp copy, with rough leaves, measuring 14$\frac{15}{16}$ in. by 9$\frac{5}{16}$ in.

—— Comedies, Histories,& Tragedies, fourth Edn., brilliant impression of the port. by Droeshout, with Ben Jonson's verses beneath, remarkably fine and sound copy, genuine throughout, in the orig. cf., fo., 1685 Stevens, £150 S. Dec. 9

* Measures 14¼ in. by 9¼ in., being both taller and broader than Mr. Halliwell-Phillipps' copy, which was described as being larger than the famous Britwell copy (the largest known to Lowndes). Thus the present copy must be one of the tallest in existence; it has a few uncut leaves; the misprints in this copy differ somewhat from the list given by Lowndes.

—— Comedies, Histories, and Tragedies, with introduction by E. Capell, 10 v., hf. mor., contents lettered, g. t. large copy, Dryden Leach for I. & R. Tonson (1767-8) Jackson, £1 4s S. Dec. 8

— Letters, with Introductory Essay by Robert Browning, cf., t. e. g., uncut, 1852 Maberley, £22 10s S Dec. 9

* One of the most ingenious literary forgeries of modern times, so clever as to have deceived the very elect. Browning was induced to prefix an Essay of 44 pages on the life and genius of Shelley. The genuineness of the letters was first called in question by Mr. F. T. Palgrave, who saw the book at Tennyson's house, and accidentally opened it at a passage which he recognised as taken from an article contributed by his father to the "Quarterly Review." Other tests were then applied, the post-marks carefully examined, and little by little the network of fraud was unravelled. The book was suppressed and destroyed, only a few copies had got abroad, and it now rarely occurs for sale. Inserted in the present copy are the following additions:

A forged Letter, 3 pp. 4to, signed P. B. Shelley, to Byron, dated Pisa, Sept. 4th, 1821, entirely in reference to "Queen Mab." A forged Letter, 3 pp. 4to, signed N. Byron (Lord Byron) to T. Curtis, Esq. Pisa, dated 1822, in reference to "Paradise Lost"; both these letters were forged by "George Byron," who also forged and sold the letters published in 1852. Five Letters in the Autograph of George Gordon Byron (the forger), who was stated to be the son of Lord Byron and the "Maid of Athens," these letters, dated from 1846-7, state that he is a son of the Poet, and deal with his proposed "Life" of Lord Byron, for which he seeks unpublished material, especially original letters (his forgeries were, of course, based on letters obtained in this manner), inter alia he states that his proposed "Life" will cost £2,000, it is to be in 3 thick royal 8vo volumes, with upwards of 20 plts. A. L. s. March 18, 1852, from W. White (who bought the forged letters) to the editor of "The Literary Gazette." A. L. March 27, 1852, from the editor of "The Literary Gazette" to Sir F. Madden of the British Museum, in reference to Mr. White. A. L. s. (original draft), March 29, 1852. from Sir F. Madden to the editor of "The Literary Gazette," in reference to the forged letters. A. L. s. (original draft), March 29, 1852, of Sir F. Madden to Mr. White, on the same subject. A. L. s. March 30, 1852, of W. White to Sir F. Madden, also in reference to the forged letters. A. L. s. March 30, 1852, from W. White, to the editor of "The Literary Gazette," on the same subject. A. L. s. March 30, 1852, from Lovell Reeve (editor of "The Literary Gazette"), to Sir F. Madden, also in reference to the forged letters (with draft of Sir F. Madden's reply). A. L. s. April 1, 1852, from the editor of "The Athenæum" (W. J. Thoms) to Sir F. Madden, on the same subject. A. L. s. April 3, 1852, from Reeve to Sir F. Madden, on the same subject (with draft of Madden's reply). Original draft of Madden's letter to Thoms, 13 April, 1852, vindicating his action in regard to the Shelley forgeries. Copy of White's letter to John Murray, April 14, 1852, in reference to forged Byron and Keats letters (by G. Byron). A. L. s. of Thoms to Madden, in reference to the Shelley forgeries. Original Draft, 15 April, 1852, of Madden's letter to Murray, on the same subject. A. L. s. April 23, 1852, from Murray to Madden, in reference to "White's indiscretion." A. L. s. of S. L. Sotheby to Madden, in reference to the forged Byron letters. Madden's Original Memoranda on the Byron and Shelley forgeries. The Printed Pamphlet, published by White, explaining how he came to buy and sell the forged letters.

Cuttings from the "Athenæum" and "Literary Gazette" denouncing the forgeries, a complete collection. The Original Advertisement of "Byron and the Byrons," by Geo. Byron, Esq. Original Subscription Ticket for above. A Circular warning the public against George Byron, alias De Gibler.

* The first volume is of great interest not only as having formed a contribution to the controversy which produced—according to Prof. Oman—"the first considerable instalment of technical military writing in the English Language," but also because it incurred the displeasure of Q. Elizabeth, who directed "that all copies of the book be called in, both because they be printed without privilege and that they may breed much question and quarrell." There is an early MS. note on fly-leaf respecting the life and ancestry of Smythe, and the name "John Verney" in the same hand on title.

Bunyan (John) Divine Emblems, woodcuts, 1802 Tregaskis, 13s S. Mar. 27

—— The Pilgrim's Progress, 4th Edn., with additions, with the exceedingly rare port. of Bunyan dreaming, by R. White, some side-notes and fore-margin of title slightly shaved, flaw in paper of corner of M 6, injuring catchword, but a fine and tall copy, old cf. gilt, Nath. Ponder, 1680 B. F. Stevens, £101 S. Mar. 27

* The genuine 4th edn. of Bunyan's celebrated work, and so excessively rare that we can only trace the sale of one other copy in recent years, which, wanting portrait and otherwise defective, realised £12 in these rooms in 1894. The portrait possesses much bibliographical interest, having on its back the "advertisement from the bookseller," in which Ponder bitterly complains of the land "Pirates," who had counterfeited his book, and points out the difference between the genuine and false impression, winding up thus: "This fourth edition hath, as the third had, the author's picture before the title, and hath more than 22 passages of additions, pertinently placed quite thorow the Book, which the counterfeit hath not." Lowndes states that the portrait is by Roy, but he is evidently wrong, as the above-mentioned advertisement clearly shows.

Jopling and others, 67 v., orig. grained mor. ex. bdgs., with the Royal Arms and title of each Regiment on the sides, g. e., 1835-53 Sotheran, £77 H. Mar. 29

Sold by Order of the Executor of the late Miss Sophia Cannon (Daughter of the late Richard Cannon). A magnificent and unique set of these scarce publications, which forms as a whole a Regimental History of the British Army from the Seventeenth to the Nineteenth Century. That the set may be properly described as unique is clear from the fact that it was formerly the property of the late Richard Cannon, and contains in several volumes his MS. corrections. It is fair to assume that the volumes are all picked copies. In three or four cases there are plates which appear to be extra, and are not on the list of plates, and in the volumes of the "2nd Foot Regiment" there are two Original Drawings of the Colours, painted on vellum and heightened with gold. The "3rd Light Dragoons" has the Appendix, with an additional plate, issued later, and the "14th Foot Regiment" has 4 pp. of corrected Appendix inserted. In the case of the Highland Regiments the tartan plaids of the regiment are used as end papers. The set, which is not quite complete, comprises 26 Regiments of Cavalry and 41 Regiments of Infantry.

Holtorp Collection. Mr. von Holtorp's Typographical and Xylographical Collections, consisting of Specimen Leaves of nearly all the Early Printers of Germany, France, Italy, England, The Netherlands, and Spain; Leaves from Ancient Books, with Xylographic Illustrations, Colophons, Devices, Portraits, Woodcuts by Old Masters, &c.

* The Collector, who has been for 50 years accumulating and arranging this unique collection, has attached notes of identification of printer, place and date (as far as possible) to each specimen, thus tracing the progress of printing in each particular town represented. Each specimen is mounted on thick cardboard, and arranged in fairly good chronological order. The whole collection will be sold not subject to return on any account whatever.

[The recording of fragments of books does not come within the scope of B.A.R., but Mr. von Holtorp's was such a remarkable collection of title-pages, colophons, leaves, broadsides, &c., that mention of it is made in the interest of future reference. The collection was sold at Sotheby's, on March 29, 1906, in 20 lots, (Nos. 627 to 646). The aggregate price was £742 15s 0d, and Mr. Quaritch was the purchaser of all but one lot.]

Printed upon vellum. This most curious "Livre d'Heures," composed of 92 fine vellum leaves, is illustrated with 16 wood engravings à mipage, illuminated. The title is found on the recto of c1, i.e. folio 17. The volume commences with the ancient legend of the Jew who maltreated the "Host" of the Holy Sacrament by beating it with a stick until blood flowed therefrom. The legend is in verse, and is written in French—the only part of the book (except the head line for the "Almanack") in that language. It commences:

"Ung iuif mutillant jadis
L'hostie du sainct sacrement
Par frapper des coups plus de dix
Fist sortir sang habondāment," etc.

An Almanack for 15 years (1523 to 1537 inclusive) is printed upon the second leaf. This volume is not cited by Brunet.

New Testament [faithfully trans. by W. Tyndall, with notes on the Dark Places thereof]. b. l., long lines, 35 to a full page, divided into chapters with headings to each, but not into Verses, Commences on A 1, William Tindale unto the Christian Reader (8 ll.); A prologue upon the Gospell of Saynct Matthew; The signatures in this copy are A—Z and a—v 6 in 8's, ending with the first portion of the first chapter of the Revelation. The vol. wants T 1 and 8 in first sign., and b 1 and 8 and sheets O and P in second; L 2—P 1 in first sign. transposed in binding, stained and marginal notes cut into, all the rest genuine and sound, black mor., stamped blind ornaments, with clasps, 18th century, w. a. f. [Printed abroad, 153—] Fowler, £20 S. Mar. 30

* An excessively rare Edition, which we have been unable to identify from the Bibliographies. The Prologue to the Romans begins midpage of C ii and ends midpage e iiii. It is not apparently in Fry, Lowndes, Wilson or Cotton. There are no woodcuts, except a few small ornamental initials. The leaves measure (being a short copy), $5\frac{5}{8} \times 3\frac{1}{4}$ in.

New Testamente of our Saviour Jesu Christe, Ffaythfully translated out of the greke, and perused by the commandemente of the Kynges maiestie, and his honourable counsell, and by them auctorised, b. l., small woodcuts, several headlines and side notes slightly cut, and a few leaves defective, but generally sound throughout, cf., R. Jugge, n. d. (1552) Rowley, £40 S. Mar. 30

* Collation: Title in black and red, with woodcut portrait of Edward VI, in an ornamental oval, below the two lines, "The Pearl," etc., without any imprint. The reverse, Almanacke for XVII yeares, beginning, 1552. The copye of the byll dated at the bottom: At Westm. the XX of October, 1552, 1 page. Epistle to the King, 3 pages. Kalender in red and black, 6 pages. The headlines are in italics, and marginal references in black letter. A full page contains 34 lines. Lowndes states: "An edition supposed to be hitherto undescribed." "This Booke belonged to one of ye Martyrs in ye days of Queen Mary," MS. note on title.

—— The same, b. l., woodcuts, Jugge's 1st quarto Edn. of Tyndale's Version, imperfect, begins Math. Cap. 2—ends Revelation, Cap. XXII., contains many sound ll., old stamped cf. (broken), w. a. f., sm. 4to [R. Jugge, 1552] Quaritch, £2 12s S. Mar. 30

Newe Testament of Oure Saviour Jesus Christe, faithfully translated oute of the Greke, b. l., title and calender in red and black, head of Edward VI. on title, with "The Copye of the Bill," etc., on reverse, dated Greenwich, 1552; maps and woodcuts, title and a few ll. age-stained, a few margins mended, old blue mor. (R. Jugge, 1533) Ryley, £45 S. Mar. 31

* Tyndale's Version Revised; Jugge's Second Quarto. Perfect from title to end, and genuine; generally sound and margins intact.

Newe Testament of our Lord Jesus Christ [ed. by W. Whittingham], 1st Edn. of the Genevan Version, and the 1st English Edn. with the Text divided into Verses, printed in Roman type, woodcut initials and ornaments, ruled in red (no title, and 3 other ll. missing, some margins cut, otherwise sound copy), cf., C. Badius, 1557 £2 10s H. Mar. 30

Newe Te- stament of oure Sa- | uiour Jesus Christ, Translated by | M. Wil. Tyndall | yet once agay- | ne corrected with new Annota- | cyons very necessary to better on- | derstondynge, b. l., with capitals, and 21 woodcuts in The Revelation, wants 2 titles (with Calendar for January on reverse of second) p. 2 of Calendar damaged and covered with transparent paper, blank page at end has some MS. notes, otherwise fine, tall, clean copy, sprinkled cf., rebacked [1549] Quaritch, £15 C. Mar. 14

A fine copy of a rare Edition of Tyndall's New Testament: No. 23 of Mr. Fry's List, who says: "This edition was published without the name of the printer, unless it was on the first title, which we have not seen, and is unknown. . . . I think we may safely infer that it came from a Continental press."

Powel (J.) Assize of Bread, woodcuts, b. l., sm. 4to, hf. cf., 1684 £1 8s H. Mar. 30

—— (T.) "A Dream of Arcady," and "Stanzas," being apparently proof sheets (16 pages) from a volume of Poems by T. Powell, published about 1848, with numerous autograph corrections by Robert Browning Spencer, £5 15s H. Mar. 29

* Powell, who was an intimate friend of Wordsworth's, had apparently sent this—the first sheet—to Browning to criticise. This the Poet did, made considerable alterations in the text, and added several explanatory and critical notes. For instance, on p. 10, is written "Tennyson, whose phrase this is, even to the uglifying per-i-ods into three syllables, uses 'devolved' as an active verb—'devolved his rounded periods'—still, it will do as a neuter." The last leaf bears a note in Powell's hand to the effect that the corrections are by "Rob. Browning, author of Sordello," with this quotation: "'The corrections are Sordello's—every line! For Heaven's sake, Helen, take them not for mine! Byron's Juan.'"

* Has the blank leaf forming A 1 and good margins, but wants the plate of the Indian Fort. The Author first went over to New England with Governor Winthrop in 1630, and was chosen in 1634 to represent Boston in the Massuchusetts Assembly. In 1667 the Mantinenoc Indians gave him a grant of land, and as a consequence the name of Underhill is still existing in New Hampshire. There are two examples in the British Museum and one in Harvard College Library, but of which no copy appears to have been offered for public sale in recent years. The Collation is as follows: A—F in fours, the first blank.

Outside cover, also in Byron's hand, is the address: "To the Baron von Lutzerode, etc., Byron," and throughout the volume are several corrections in the poet's hand. The fly-leaf at end bears an interesting authentication signed by the recipient and witnessed by G. Lloyd Hodges (Her Britannic Majesty's Mission, Homburg), 1853

* Whilst at Pisa, in 1822, Lord Byron said to Medwin, "You tell me Baron Lutzerode has been asking for some authentic particulars of my life to affix to his translation of 'Cain,' and thus contradict the German stories circulated about me, and which, I understand, even Goethe believes. Why don't you write something for him, Medwin? I believe you know more of me than anyone else—things even that are not in the book." "My friend, the Baron" (replies Medwin) "is a great enthusiast about you, and I am sure you would like him. . . . Shall I bring the Baron?" "I have declined," replied Lord Byron, "going to Court, and as he belongs to it, must also decline his visit. I neither like Princes nor their satellites. I will make my peace with your amiable friend by sending him a 'Cain' and 'Don Juan' as a present, and adding to the first page of the latter an impression of my seal with the motto, 'Elle vous suit partout.' This will please the German sentimentalist." (See Medwin's Conversations of Lord Byron, 1824, pp. 277 9, etc.). The above are the identical copies referred to.

Cruikshank. The sale of the late Mr. Edwin Truman's collection of Cruikshankiana occurred at Sotheby's on May 7th to 12th. A large number of the lots were composite lots, therefore useless as indications of value, and are not recorded. Also, lots 896 to 1421 consisted of sets and collections of plates, separate etchings, caricatures, broadsides, songs, lithographs, drawings, copper-plates, wood blocks, etc., none of which come within the scope of B. A. R. Every single publication is recorded in this Part, under either its author's name or its correct heading; but the catalogue is so valuable as a record of a unique collection that every bookseller should possess a priced copy of it.

Kenrick (T.) British Stage, v. I, II, III and V, cold. character ports. by G. and R. Cruikshank, boards, uncut, fine copies, v. V has bound up with it the scarce portion issued of v. VI, the front. to part 63 is the port. of Farren as "Sir Fretful Plagiary," which was issued as a front. with no. 61; also a duplicate v. II, wanting pp. 129 and 133, soiled, 5 v., 1817-22 Sabin, £38 S. May 8

—— The same, 6 v., v. I to V hf. cf., uncut, v. VI (with which is bound up other theatrical publications), cut down, 1817-22 Parsons, £53 S. May 8

* The finest copy extant. Vol. I and II contain all the plates etched by G. C. for the work, and he has noted on each plate whether etched by his brother or himself. The portrait of Mrs. Davenport, plate I, vol. I, is in 2 states; on the first, evidently a cancelled plate, G. C. has written "not by any of the Cruikshank Family," on the substituted plates "J. R." before "Cruikshank fect." Plate XVIII, vol. II, "Mr. Jones as Matthew Sharpset," is in 2 states, the head altered in the second state, and on this plate G. C. has written "with a new head on old shoulders." At p. 5, vol. V, is apparently an extra portrait of Elliston. Each vol. has been carefully collated by Mr. Truman, and is stated by him to be perfect.

* These splendid volumes are from the library of Lord Nelson, to whom they were presented by the author. A long inscription presenting them to Nelson and a letter addressed to the Admiral, both in the autograph of Sir R Worsley, are in the volumes These volumes were presented by Nelson to Lady Hamilton, and were sold in her sale (at Christie's) in 1809, for 50 guineas, and then passed into the famous Dent collection. The present copy has the rare extra leaf printed on vellum which was printed with but two or three of the special copies.

* The two parts are rarely found together. The present copies have all the separate titles and blank leaves so often wanting. The pieces appear to have been separately printed at intervals, during 1614-15, and scarcely two copies correspond in the contents. The present one, in unusually fine state, possesses the two Sessions and some of the supplementary forms subsequently added, and has certain blank leaves, not in most copies, necessary to complete the sheets.

* Halliwell speaks of it as 8vo, and Hazlitt can only copy him. The size is sm. 4to; it is very badly printed; it is written in rhymed lines. The author is unknown; it may be unique. Lowndes mentions it only from Coxeter's Notes and calls it 8vo. It was entered on the Stationer's Books, 1577-8. It was known in 1661, and is mentioned in the Catalogue of Plays issued by N. Brook and others, of that date.

[Fitz-Geffrey (Chas.)] Sir Francis Drake, His Honorable Life's Commendation, and his Tragicall Deathe's Lamentation, title within woodcut border, small woodcut ornament at head and foot of each page, orig. issue (small hole in border of title), Oxford, Joseph Barnes, and are to bee solde in Pauls Church-yard at the signe of the Bible, 1596, with 3 other, but unimportant pieces, in 1 v., 12mo, cont. cf. £151 H. July 5

* A rare Elizabethan poem, dedicated to Drake's wife, "the beauteous and vertuous Lady Elizabeth." The author is mentioned by Meres in "Palladis Tamia," 1598, and quotations from the poem occur in Allot's "England's Parnassus," 1600. It was reprinted by Sir E. Brydges, and again by Dr. Grosart in his Occasional Issues. Collation: A 4 leaves, B to G in eights (E 3 misprinted C 3). This appears to be an earlier issue than the one in the British Museum, as the commendatory verses by Richard and Francis Rous are here signed with initials only (not in full), and it does not contain the verses by Mychelborne afterwards added.

Lamb. An Album containing original autograph contributions by Charles Lamb, comprising a poem of eight lines entitled "The Boy, the Mother and the Butterfly," commencing 'Young William held the Butterfly in Chase," and four lines appended as a Moral, signed "Charles Lamb, Enfield Chase, 9th Octr. 1827," also humorous verses in the Autograph of Tom Hood, and other contributions, sq. fcp., old blue mor., g. e., 1825-31 £40 H. July 26

* The verses by Lamb are very characteristic, and in the last line—"Remember, William, He is But a Fly"—may be seen his inveterate proclivity for punning. It may be added that the signature to several of the contributions is doubtless that of the Thomas Westwood with whom the Lambs lived at Enfield for a time, and whose character is so admirably delineated by Lamb in a letter he wrote to Wordsworth in 1827.

—— King Glumpus: An Interlude, in One Act, with 3 ills. of "King Glumpus," "Lady Popkins," and "Lord Lollypop" by W. M. Thackeray [For Private Circulation only], unbound, no wrapper, 1837 £101 H. Aug. 1

Very few examples are known, and no copy appears to have been offered for public sale since the discovery of the Thackeray interest in it. It is probably even more rare than "The Exquisites," a little play published in 1839, to which Thackeray also contributed illustrations, and a copy of which sold in these rooms in March, 1904, for £85. The above is an autograph presentation copy from the writer of the play, the first fly leaf bearing the inscription "Miss Emily Parker from her never-to-be-sufficiently-admired friend The Author." It does not appear even to have been bound, the collation being as follows: Title and seven leaves (including Dramatis Personæ), 3 plates, and 2 blank fly-leaves, 13 leaves in all. The Water-mark in the paper is "G. H. Green, 1834." A comparison of the title-page of the above with the title-page of "The Exquisites," reveals a marked similarity, which certainly points to the fact that they were issued from the same press.

PRESS NOTICES

The Athenæum, March 10, 1906, says: "In all respects the compilation maintains its reputation for accuracy and completeness," and in an earlier notice The Athenaeum stated that B.A.R was "invaluable as a book of reference."

Note and Queries, Feb. 17, 1906, declares B.A.R. to be "a valuable record."

The Academy, Feb. 10, 1906, states that B.A.R. is "an invaluable and masterly work."

The Publishers' Circular, Feb 10, 1906, says: "It is indispensable to all who are interested in second-hand books."

T.P.'s Weekly, Nov. 17, 1905, says: "It is the most complete catalogue of current prices."

The Publisher's Weekly, New York, Dec. 16, 1905, says: "It is unrivalled in its field in England, and forms an indispensable tool in the working library."

The Clique (the recognised organ of the second-hand book trade) says, on Feb. 3, 1906: "A comparison with any other book-sales record will at once prove that nothing on such a complete scale has ever been attempted before."

NAPOLEON.—Horne (R. H.) History of Napoleon, 1840-41. 2 vols, imp. 8vo, SPECIAL COPY, INLAID THROUGHOUT, AND ENLARGED TO 6 VOLUMES, FOLIO, BY THE INSERTION OF 1130 PORTRAITS, ENGRAVINGS, CARICATURES, AUTOGRAPH LETTERS, DOCUMENTS AND DRAWINGS. Bound in purple morocco extra, with the arms of Napoleon in gold on the sides (specially cut from an authentic official plate), surrounded by a gold-tooled wreath of violets, gilt edges, with specially printed titles £150

The meteoric career of this "child of the Revolution," as, we think, Carlyle termed him, has lost none of its fascination for mankind eighty years after its close, and an account of that career, intelligently illustrated, literally from the cradle to the grave (for the illustrations commence from Napoleon's birthplace, and end with the Second Funeral in the Invalides, which Thackeray saw and described), would be a corner-stone in any library of historical pretensions. The following is a brief analysis of the contents:—

SEVEN HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FOUR HISTORICAL ENGRAVINGS AND VIEWS, illustrating the principal military actions and other events of Napoleon's Life, and scenes in the Revolution; and of these no fewer than 229 are coloured impressions.

THREE HUNDRED PORTRAITS OF PERSONS influenced by, or influencing, the career of Napoleon, including 92 rare coloured military and other portraits

FIFTY-TWO RARE COLOURED CARICATURES, by George Cruikshank (some from the Royal Aquarium Collection), Rowlandson, Woodward, Gillray, and others, chiefly directed against the ambitious schemes of the Emperor, and rejoicing in his downfall.

SIX FACSIMILES and one Broadside.

EIGHTEEN AUTOGRAPH LETTERS by Prince Talleyrand, to the Minister of War, respecting the Artillery at Boulogne, intended for the Invasion of England, 1803—Gen. Masséna, the Victor of Rivoli (after whom the Rue de Rivoli, in Paris, was named), writing from the Army of the Danube, 1798—Clarke, Duc de Feltre, mentioning the Directory, 1796—The Marquis de Choiseul; Prince Charles Lucien Bonaparte; The Marquis de Ségur, Minister of War to Louis XVI., 1781—Lord Palmerstone, 1831—Duke of Wellington, to the Commander-in-Chief, the Duke of York, written from Spain, in 1813, on military matters (Wellington's Peninsular Letters are very rare); Lady Holland (Napoleon's friend), to Mrs. Sydney Smith; Duke of Richmond (fought at Waterloo; it was at his wife's residence that the famous Ball took place on the eve of the Battle); Lord Bathurst; Duke of Sussex (son of George III.); Sir John Cam Hobhouse, 1837—Samuel Whitbread (friend of Fox and advocate of Napoleon), 1796; Lord Sidmouth; Earl Grey, the "Reform" Statesman, Sir T. Graham, Peninsular Officer, 1812, and R. H. Horne (the author of the book), to Mary Howitt.

ELEVEN AUTOGRAPHS of Sir John Moore (the Hero of Corunna); Davidoff, the Russian General; King Leopold; George IV.; Admiral Cockburn (who conveyed Napoleon to St. Helena); Lord Hill (worsted the Imperial Guard at Waterloo); Lord Aberdeen; Count Montalivet, 1813; Marshal Molitor, Lord Grenville, and the Prince de Condé; also

A Document signed by the Empress Marie Louise, at St. Cloud, in 1813

A Document on Vellum, March 29, 1813, signed by Napoleon, at the Palace of the Elysée, countersigned by the Secretary of State and other Ministers.

A Letter to the Minister of War, Jan. 17, 1804, signed Bonaparte. It was in this year that he was made Emperor.

A Document on Vellum, signed by Louis XVIII., in 1776.

An Official Document respecting Toulon, signed by Talleyrand in 1797.

A Sheet of Note Paper taken from the Writing Case found in Napoleon's Carriage when captured at Waterloo, with water-marks of the Emperor's Head and the Imperial Eagle.

A Copy of Nelson's Instructions to his Captains before the Battle of Trafalgar.

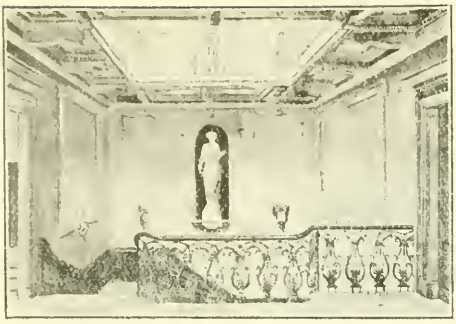

Facsimile of a Gold Plate given to Sir Sydney Smith (the hero of the Siege of Acre), by Mehemet Ali, with autograph and inscription of Sir Sydney.

A Spirited Water-Colour Drawing by J. A. Atkinson, of a Battle Scene in the Peninsular, made at the time. (Atkinson painted a great picture of the Battle of Waterloo, and many other battle pieces.)

Eight other Water-Colour Drawings by J. Gendall, &c.

The book is, in short, of the most engrossing interest as illustrating the life of one of the world's greatest men.

END OF VOLUME 3.

'Some annuals are invariably welcome, while others never fail to produce irritation. To the latter class belongs "Book Prices Current;" it is awkward as a book of reference, not astonishing in accuracy, and as a record of books sold by auction is of course incomplete. . . . "Book-Auction Records," on the other hand . . is evidently the work of a man who is master of his subject.'—The Saturday Review, Dec. 23, 1905.

RECENT BOOKSELLERS' CATALOGUES

(ARRANGED ALPHABETICALLY)

Allsup & Stanley, 48 Fishergate, Preston.—The Preston Book-List, No. 1. Subjects:—Africa, Alpine, America, Angling, Architecture, Arctic, Australia, China, Military, Naval, Nelson, Norway and Sweden, Spain and Portugal, Thackeray, Miscellaneous, including a complete set of Fraser's Magazine.

Edward Baker, 14-16, John Bright St., Birmingham.—"Railroadiana," a Very Remarkable Catalogue of 1483 lots connected with the Origin, Rise, and Development of Railways, including many Scarce Items relating to American and Foreign Railways. It is, in fact, more than a catalogue; its scope and extent are such that it forms a Bibliography of the subject, and should be preserved as a guide. Not only books, but pamphlets, early maps and time-tables are included. The collection took over 20 years to accumulate, and includes many items impossible to duplicate. There is also a supplement of books on Steam Navigation.

Boyveau & Chevillet, 22 Rue de la Banque, Paris.—Catalogue d'Ouvrages pour l'Etude des Langues et Littératures Etrangères. A comprehensive catalogue of many hundreds of works in European languages and Arabic. The books are systematically arranged under their particular languages, a list of contents prefaces the catalogue, and an index of authors' names is at the end. The catalogue is, in short, a monument of method.

Thomas Carver, 8 High Town, Hereford.—Special Cheap Booklet of Interesting Literature; including many County Works, some fine Editions de Luxe, and a very cheap set of Alken's Steeple Chase, 6 framed coloured prints 1827, for £2 2s.

Eclectic Book Co., 16 Stonegate, York.—Catalogue No. 9, of Recent Purchases, including Fairfax's Remonstrance, 1647 (only 6s): Lady Chudleigh's Essays, 1710, a presentation copy from the great Lord Bolingbroke, for 3s; Rowland's Herbal, 1655, for 10s; a collection of books relating to Yorkshire, including an extra-illustrated edition of Drake's Eboracum, 1736; Ruskiniana; and books relating to London. Carriage is paid on purchases over 10s. Also a Short List of Books of General and Local Interest; 314 lots; English Dialects; Freemasonry, Herbals, Lake Country, but specially strong in books and separate prints of Yorkshire.

D. W. Edwards, 160 High St., Hull.—Catalogue of New and Second-Hand Books, 242 lots, Antiquities, Art, Bibliography, Botany, Music, etc, including some 17th century works.

Elzevir Book Co., 158a Briggate, Leeds.—Catalogue of General Literature, Philosophy, and Science, 509 lots. An admirably-printed catalogue, containing first editions of George Meredith, Stevenson, Payne's 'Arabian Nights,' Occult and Sociological Works, Economics, Private Press Leaflets, etc. Also, a Catalogue of Books in Ancient and Modern Literature, including Autograph Copies, First Editions, and some fine prints and lithographs.

Sydney V. Galloway, New St., Aberystwyth.—General Second-Hand Educational Catalogue; Classics, Libraries, History, Mathematics, German, Sciences, Pedagogy, Theology, etc. Special catalogues of Welsh books are issued, and will be sent on request.

Galloway & Porter, 30 Sidney St., Cambridge.—Catalogue No. 28, of books on Architecture, Bibliography, Cambridge, Chess, Classics, History, Mathematics, Natural Science, Sport, etc., also a Bargain List at 1s. per vol. Other catalogues, still in print, can be supplied.

F. W. Goad, 2-3 Bath St., Bath.—Third Selection of Old Books on Africa, America, China, India, Military, Naval, Shakespeare, etc.

J. T. Goldie, 37 Cliff Road, Leeds.—The Connoisseur-Collector's Catalogue of Scarce and Out-of-the-Way Books, 277 lots, strong in Ceramics, Furniture, and Gardening, also Shakespeariana, Symonds' first editions, and a rare set of old colour prints of Trafalgar, "fairly described and moderately priced."

Hiscoke & Son, 22 Hill Street, Richmond, Surrey.—Short List of Second-Hand Books. Subjects:—Arctic, Architecture, Birds, Entomology, Russia; also a few first editions and 17th century books.

Holland Bros., 21 John Bright St., Birmingham.—Catalogue No. 116 (458 lots), Fine Sets of Great Authors, Oscar Wilde's Works, Oriental Books, and general high-class literature.

G. T. Juckes & Co., 85 Aston St., Birmingham.—Catalogue of Rare, Curious and Standard Works, in Best Library Condition, 402 lots, including Martial Achievements, 1815; Ackermann's Horse Accomplishments; Camden's Britannia, 1695; Du Puy's Brussels, 1646; Leech's rare coloured Hunting Prints; Oriental Field Sports; a Collection of Famous Trials; and many more general books.

J. & J. Leighton, 40, Brewer St., W.—Catalogue of Early-Printed and other Interesting Books, Manuscripts, and Fine Bindings, Part IX., U to Z. An earlier section of this remarkable catalogue—Si to T—was noticed in Vol. 2, Part 2 of B.A.R. It is a volume that any bookseller may be proud to have produced, as a record of taste, judgment, enterprise, and scholarly work. The present Part consists of 192 pages, 493 lots, and no fewer than 157 excellent reproductions of woodblocks from early-printed books, title-pages, bindings, etc., etc. The entire volume contains 1350 illustrations, making it the largest illustrated catalogue of early-printed books yet issued by a bookseller, and every book-collector and every dealer should possess it for its permanent value as a book of reference. The price is £1 5s, and a Supplementary Volume and Index are yet to be issued.

Lowe Bros., 45 Newhall St., Birmingham.—Rare and Valuable Books in Fine Condition; Ainsworth first editions; Bunbury's rare Illustrations to Shakespeare, 1792; Rare Cruikshanks' and Dickens'; a Granger's History of England, extra-illustrated, £2 15; a Collection of Original Drawings by the Old Masters, formed by Sir Joshua Reynolds, price £288; and many other books of interest.

Alex. W. Macphail, 6 St. Giles St., Edinburgh.—'Rarities in Scottish and other Literature. Inside this Catalogue will be found the Right Items for Collectors of All Tastes; Curious, Rare, and Old Books and Pamphlets.' A very attractive title, well justified by the contents. An extremely fine First London Edition of Burns is included, and a few rare coloured engravings.

N. Massey, 84 Patrick St., Cork.—Catalogue of Books relative to Ireland, its History, Antiquity, Language, Folk-Lore, Family History, etc., consisting of 1724 lots; also a few Miscellaneous Books and Rare First Editions.

B. & J. F. Meehan, 32 Gay St., Bath.—Catalogue No. 59, of Rare, Valuable, and Useful Books, Ancient and Modern, in all Classes of Literature, under the heads of South Africa, America, Archery, Art, Bath, Bewick, Botany, Byron first editions, Fencing, Gardening, Heraldry, India, Japan, Lancashire, Napoleon, Nelson, Occult, Portraits, Railways, Russia, Shaw, Tennyson, Wales, Wilde, etc,, etc, Messrs. Meehan issue weekly lists of Wants, and do not charge their customers for insertions.

James Miles, 32 Guildford St., Leeds.—Catalogue No. 128, comprising a Choice Collection of Alpine and Mountaineering Literature, purchased from a Well-known Private Collector, and Recent Acquisitions from Private Sources and by Auction, classified under Africa, America, Angling, Art, Australia and New Zealand, Autographs, Botany, First Editions, Illustrated Woodcut Books of the "Sixties," Law, Medical, Old Hymnology, Sporting, Yorkshire, etc. A fine copy of the Nuremberg Chronicle is included. Special lists of books on America, Yorkshire, Occult Literature, and Architecture can be had. Also, a Catalogue of Superior Second-Hand Books, comprising Standard Sets, Art Periodicals, Early Printing (1482-1610), Yorkshire Topography, First Editions of Gray's Odes, etc., etc.

Joseph Milligan, Welton Mount, Leeds.—Catalogue No. 25 (871 lots), containing a Fine Selection of First and Best Editions of Standard Authors, and among special subjects, America, China, Ireland, Ancient Worships, Shakespeare, Sporting, Voyages, Wales, Yorkshire. Among the rarities are Hakluyt's Navigations, 1589; Suckling's Fragmenta Aurea, 1648; Expert Gardener, 1654; Jorrocks's Jaunts and Jollities, 1838; and Wilson's Art of Rhetorique, 1560. Every book-buyer should put his name down for Mr. Milligan's interesting catalogues.

Frank Morris, 171 Madison St., Chicago.—Catalogue No. 46 of Recent London Purchases, from the Library of the Editor of Notes and Queries, etc,; also Americana, Angling, Bibliography, Curiosa, Fine Books in Bindings, Ornithology, etc. Mr. Morris is a plucky go-ahead bookseller, whom subscribers to B.A.R. should keep in constant communication with.

Frank Murray, Moray House, Derby.—The Derby Book List, No. 218. Interesting Books in all Departments of Literature—Alpine, Medical, Theology, Bibliography, Black Letter, etc., including a Scarron, 1652, for £25. The developments of Mr. Murray's business, or businesses, are simply marvellous. He has a new book department; deals in remainders; edits a trade Journal: executes bookbinding; supplies bookcases; is his own printer; and, in short, is the William Whiteley of the Midlands book-trade.

John Orr, 74 George St., Edinburgh.—Catalogue No. 11, including Americana, Africa, Australia, Edinburgh, Ireland, Queen Mary, The Stuarts, Scotland, etc. Mr. Orr has also a large stock of Prints, Portraits, and Local Views, and his premises have recently been enlarged and improved

THE TRUMAN COLLECTION OF CRUIKSHANKIANA

(1421 Lots)

With the Prices and Names neatly written within ruled lines.

Only 6 Sets done. Price £1 1s.

As every bookseller knows, the Truman Collection was the most wonderful series of Cruikshankiana in existence, and its catalogue will be a permanent standard of reference. It contains not only books but, also, rare pamphlets and chap-books, etchings, caricatures, broadsides, theatrical portraits, songs, and music titles, lithographs, drawings, copper-plates, and wood-blocks. Many such items are extremely valuable when they occur, and of course, only the books are recorded in B.A.R.

Our Wholesale Stock of Portraits

—— Davies & Moughton, 2 Ludgate Hill.—List of Educational Publications, Test Cards, &c. This firm has also a Department for Second-hand Books. Catalogues on application

—— Downing (William) The Chaucer's Head, 5 Temple Row.—The Chaucer's Head Book Catalogue of Works relating to the Fine Arts, Philosophy, Anthropology, Primitive Culture, Primitive Marriage, Natural History, Eastern Magic, Travel, History, Topography, and General Literature, with a few finely bound in worthy editions of the Poets. Every volume of interest, complete, and in good condition. Includes a fine copy of Young's Night Thoughts, with Blake's plates, 1797, and the facsimile of the Lumley Castle portrait of Shakespeare.

—— Holland Bros., 21 John Bright Street.—Catalogue of an important Collection of books in many classes of Literature from the Libraries of the late Rev. Richard Conington and Prof John Conington, and other sources, including the First Edition of Ogilby's Road Book, 1675, and a collection of Rare Tracts on the Popish Plot, 1678-79.

—— Juckes (G. T.) & Co., The Ruskin Book Stores, 85 Aston Street.—Catalogue of a Valuable Collection of Books, including Beaumont and Fletcher's Comedies and Tragedies, 1679; Burton's Anatomy of Melancholy, 1632; Works of Charles I., 1662; Wither's Speculum Speculativum, 1660; &c.

Bristol. William George's Sons, 89 Park Street.—Catalogues Nos. 292, 293. Modern Books from various sources; and Works in Ceramics, Painting, Architecture, and Decorative Arts, Africa, Alpine, America, Angling, Asia, Folk-Lore, French Books, Grosart's Editions, India, Numismatics, Sporting, Library of a local Archæologist, &c. A prospective list is one of Old and Curious Books (grey wrapper series).

Cambridge. Galloway & Porter, 30 Sidney Street.—Catalogue of Second-Hand Books in all branches of Literature, including a special Supplement of important Classical Works. Catalogues can also be obtained of Mathematical Books, Ancient and Modern, and of Theological Books.

Carlisle. Thurnam & Sons, 11 English Street.—Catalogue of Old and Scarce Books and Pamphlets, including many Rare and Valuable Items, Topography, Early Printed Books, &c. including such works as Suckling's 'Fragmenta Aurea,' 1646; Hayward's 'Lives of the Norman Kings,' 1613; and the "Sealed" Book of Common Prayer, 1662.

Derby. Murray (Frank) Moray House.—Brief List of Books at Clearance Prices; A Holy Bible, in oak boards, with quaint plates, 1715; New Testament and Psalms, 1578-83; &c. Also The Derby Book List, No. 220, containing Heylyn's 'Cosmographie,' 1669; Blome's 'Display of Heraldry,' 1670-80; Milton's 'Defence of the People of England,' 1692; Heywood's 'Tunaeikon,' 1624, &c.

Edinburgh. Bryce (William) 54 Lothian Street.—Catalogue of Books on Art, Australia, Burns, Drama, Heraldry, the Highlands, Natural Science, Scotland Sports, &c.; also a Catalogue of Works of Travel, History, Biography, &c.

—— Johnston (George P.) 33 George Street.—Catalogue of Rare Scottish Tracts, &c., before 1700, including a collection acquired as material in the preparation of Mr. H. G. Aldis's List of Books printed in Scotland before 1700, arranged chronologically, with appendix, 1700-1705. Most of these Tracts have been collected during the last ten years, with the object of obtaining for the List titles and collations of works not found in any Public Library—a sufficient indication of their general rarity. Many are extremely rare; of others only two, three, or four copies are known, chiefly in private Libraries; and a considerable number are represented by the single copy mentioned in the catalogue. There are included several early examples of St. Andrews, Aberdeen, and Glasgow Presses. Appended to the entries are the numbers which they bear in Mr. Aldis's List, and to those with dates before 1600 the numbers in Dickson & Edmond's Annals of Scottish Printing are also added.

—— Johnstone (David) 75 Hanover Street.—Catalogue of Scarce, Curious, and Rare Books and Tracts: Wilson's 'Life and Reign of James,' 1653; Roger's 'Matrimoniall Honour,' 1642; Edinburgh Books, &c. Also a Catalogue of Antiquarian and General Literature, 680 items.

Edinburgh.—Macphail (Alex. W.) 10 St. Giles Street.—Rarities in Scottish and other Literature; Nos. LXXXV—LXXXVI. containing Choice sets of Library Editions of Standard Works in English Literature, mostly in fine bindings, and all in perfect condition, at very moderate prices; Early School Books, &c., also some Original Oil Paintings, and a genuine Bronze Statuette of Napoleon.

Harrogate. Symington's Old Book Shop, Market Square.—Leaflet with engravings of two old-book-collectors.

Hereford. Carver (Thos.) 8 High Town.—Book Lover's Catalogue of Ancient and Modern Literature, Nos. 40, 43, 44, with cover-vignette of Hereford Bridge, Hereford Cathedral, and Ledbury Town Hall (a very quaint timbered structure, on pillars); also a Catalogue of Bargains in Books.

"—". Edwards (D. W.) 160 High Street.—Catalogue of New and Second-hand Books, comprising Americana, Art, Science, Political Economy, Illustrated Books, Topographical, Quaint, Curious and Rare Pamphlets, &c. Mr. Edwards occupies an old historical house, respecting which particulars will be given when the article on Hull appears.

Leamington. Simmonds & Waters, 10 Spencer Street.—Catalogue of Topographical and Antiquarian Books relating to British Isles, including a few Engravings, arranged in Counties, some books of considerable scarcity are included, such as Atkyns' 'Gloucestershire,' 1712, and Wood's Colleges of Oxford, 1773.

Leeds. Miles (James) 32 Guildford Street.—Catalogue of a Miscellaneous Collection of Second-hand Books, comprising a Small Library of Architectural Works, a Selection of Medical and Surgical Works, Yorkshire Topography, an Interesting Collection of "Review Copies" of Recent Publications, a Set of "Punch," "The Times" Edition of the Encyclopædia Britannica, etc., and including such books as 'Playes, by the Marchioness of Newcastle,' 1662; Egan's 'Life of an Actor,' 1825, and Selden's 'Mare Clausum,' 1635. Also, Catalogue No. 132, of an important collection of books, including the privately-purchased Library from Park Hill, near Bawtry, formed by the St. Leger family (particularly rich in Old French literature illustrated by the artists of the period—Eisen, Cochin, Moreau le Jeune, Gravelot, etc.). The First Section comprises General Literature: the second, Old English; and the third, Old French literature.

—— Milligan (Joseph) 29 Welton Mount.—Catalogue of a Miscellaneous Collection of Books, including purchases from the libraries of the Earl of Cork and Orrery, Sir J. Hawley, Wm. Paul, Esq., etc., etc., comprising Standard Books in various branches of literature; works relating to America; Philoponus (H.) Nova Typis Transacta Navigatio Novi Orbis Indiæ Occidentalis, etc., 1621; Noort (Olivier Van) Description du Penible Voyage Fait Entour De L'univers Ou Globe Terrestre, etc., 1610; Hakluyt's Voyages, 1589, etc., etc.; also Publications of the Egyptian Exploration Fund, 34 vols.; a Magnificently Bound Set of the Domesday Book, 4 vols., folio; and many other Finely Bound Books; numerous works relating to Ireland, English Topography (particularly Yorkshire), First Editions of Modern Authors, including Surtees' Sporting Novels, Swinburne, etc., etc.

Leyton, Essex. Baldwin (J.) 14 Osborne Road.—Clearance Catalogue of Second-hand Books, including some of the Seventeenth Century (and earlier), by Mrs. Behn, T. Hobbes, and others, also, First Editions of Oscar Wilde's books, etc., etc.

London. Buchanan (John) 49 Great Queen Street, W.C.—Catalogue of Second-hand Books, Ancient and Modern, comprising History, Biography, Voyages and Travels, Illustrated Works, the Various Departments of Science and Natural History, and Miscellaneous Literature.

—— Daymond (Hedley) 122 Great Western Road, Bayswater, W.—The Bayswater Catalogue, or Olla Podrida of Rare Books, Portraits, and Engravings.

—— Dobell (Bertram) 77 Charing Cross Road, W. C.—Catalogue of Rare Books, No. 141—Catalogue of Interesting and Valuable Books, No. 142; containing such items as Shelley's 'Alastor,' 1816, £20; 'The Cenci,' boards, 1819, £64; Bacon's 'Essays,' 1624, £8 8s; books from the Truman, Robinson, and Begley Collections. Mr. Dobell's prospectus of unknown and inedited works of the 16th and 17th Centuries should be written for.

—— Sawyer (Chas. J.) 29 New Oxford Street, W.C.—Catalogue of the Fine Classical Library of the late James Bailey, M.A., Eminent Classical Scholar, Author, and Editor of the Best Editions of Facciolati and Scapulæ Lexicons, 'Creek Conic Fragments,' etc., etc.; thefriend and colleague of Porson, of Bloomfield, and of Wakefiel (notes by these three famous scholars are in some of his books); collected mainly while he was at Trinity College, Cambridge, during the early years of the last century, and comprising Rare Editio Princeps, and fine examples from the Aldine, Plantin, Juntine, and Elzevir Presses; of Gryphius, Stephani, Buon, Collinæus, etc , purchased from his grandson, and now offered for sale in its entirety. Mr. Sawyer adds the following characteristic and praiseworthy note:—The impossibility of now forming such a collection renders this, made by one of the greatest classical authorities, of inestimable value. If broken up and sold separately they would realise considerably more than the very modestprice asked, but the advertiser recognises the liability that attaches to dealers orlovers of books, and desires to co-operate in preserving this most interesting library intact.

Luton. King (Chas. W.) John Street.—Daintie Diet for Boke Wormes; a Selection of Books and Pamphlets (759 lots). Mr. King is the son of Mr. Charles King, of The Old Book Shop, Torquay. His methods, as evinced in the catalogue under review (Mr. King's No. 1) are above the average—he is, in business phrase, "up-to-date," or, in artistic parlance, "in the movement." He should do well, and I can recommend his modest catalogue being applied for.

Manchester. Sutton (Albert) 43 Bridge Street.—Catalogues of Miscellaneous Books, Ancient and Modern, including purchases from the Libraries of Lord Stanley of Alderley and Prof. John Conington; also Catalogue of Second-hand Books in the various branches of Literature, including Library Editions of Standard Authors, Biography, History, Topography, Genealogy, Voyages and Travels, etc., selected from Private Libraries recently purchased, and Catalogue of Rare and Valuable Books, being a Selection from a Gentleman's Library just purchased by private treaty, including Works on Shakespeare and the Drama, Early Poetry, Reprints of Scarce Books, Bibliography, Topography, and Genealogy, Voyages and Travels, Court Memoirs, Natural History and Sport, Economics, and Miscellaneous Literature, with an Appendix of Angling Books. In some instances facsimiles of rare engraved title-pages are given in Mr. Sutton's catalogues—a move in the right direction.

Oxford. Parker & Son, 27 Broad Street.—Catalogue of Books, including the Library of the late Rev. T. H. Grose, Registrar of the University of Oxford, and a number of recent purchases, comprising a Selection of Works on the Alps, America, Architecture, Egypt, English Philology, India, Oxford and Oxfordshire, Painters and Painting, Philosophy and Logic, Political Economy, Pottery and Porcelain, etc., etc., and the Writings of Browning, Ruskin, and Wordsworth.

—— Slatter & Rose, 16 High Street, send an attractive leaflet, in a crimson envelope bearing a view of their premises. The firm dates from the Eighteenth Century.

Preston. Halewood (Alfred) 37 Friargate.—Miscellaneous Books, recently purchased, including a selection from the Library of W. N. Tittensor, Esq., Electrical Engineer, together with a portion of the Preston Military Library.

Reading. Poynder (G. A.) 96 Broad St. (also at 1 Chain St.).—Catalogue of Miscellaneous Second-hand Books, many on Natural History and Science, including the Works of John Taylor the Water Poet, 1630; Tennyson's Poems, 2 vols., 1842; Bacon's 'Proficience and Advancement of Learning,' an immaculate copy, 1605, &c. Mr Poynder has one of the most picturesque old book-shops in the kingdom, and wisely puts a view of it on the covers of his catalogues.

—— Smith (William) & Son, 97 London Street.—Catalogue of Old and Modern Second-hand Books offered at greatly reduced prices, including America and West Indies, Architecture, Art, Astronomy, Biography, Chronology, Economics, Gardens, Genealogical, History, Humourous, Illustrated Books, Juvenile Books, Law Books, Meteorology, Mythology, Napoleon, Natura, History, Penmanship, Physics, Poetry and the Drama, Portraits, Sport, Topographical and Local, Voyages and Travels.

Ruthin, North Wales. Williams (Goronwy) Ye Olde Booke Stores.—Clearance Catalogue of Miscellaneous Second-hand Books, at extremely low prices. Mr. Williams keeps a large stock of Rare Welsh Books or Books relating to Wales.

Saffron Walden. Barnard (P. M.) 4 Mount Pleasant Road.—Select Catalogue of Second-hand Books, arranged under the following headings:—Alpine Literature, Anthropology, etc., Classical Authors, mostly Early Editions and Translations; Egypt, History (Modern), History (Ancient), Classical Antiquities, etc., General List of Miscellaneous Books. Mr. Barnard is a recruit to the ranks of bookselling. He is a B.D. of Christ's College, Cambridge, and late Rector of Headley, near Epsom, and is the author of a work on the New Testament, which shows that he does not rest in the ruts of tradition.

St Neots. Wryeroft (D. S.)—Short List of Second-hand Books; Burton's 'Commentary on Antoninus,' 1658; Beard's 'Theatre of God's Judgements,' (Beard was Cromwell's Schoolmaster), 1631, etc.
